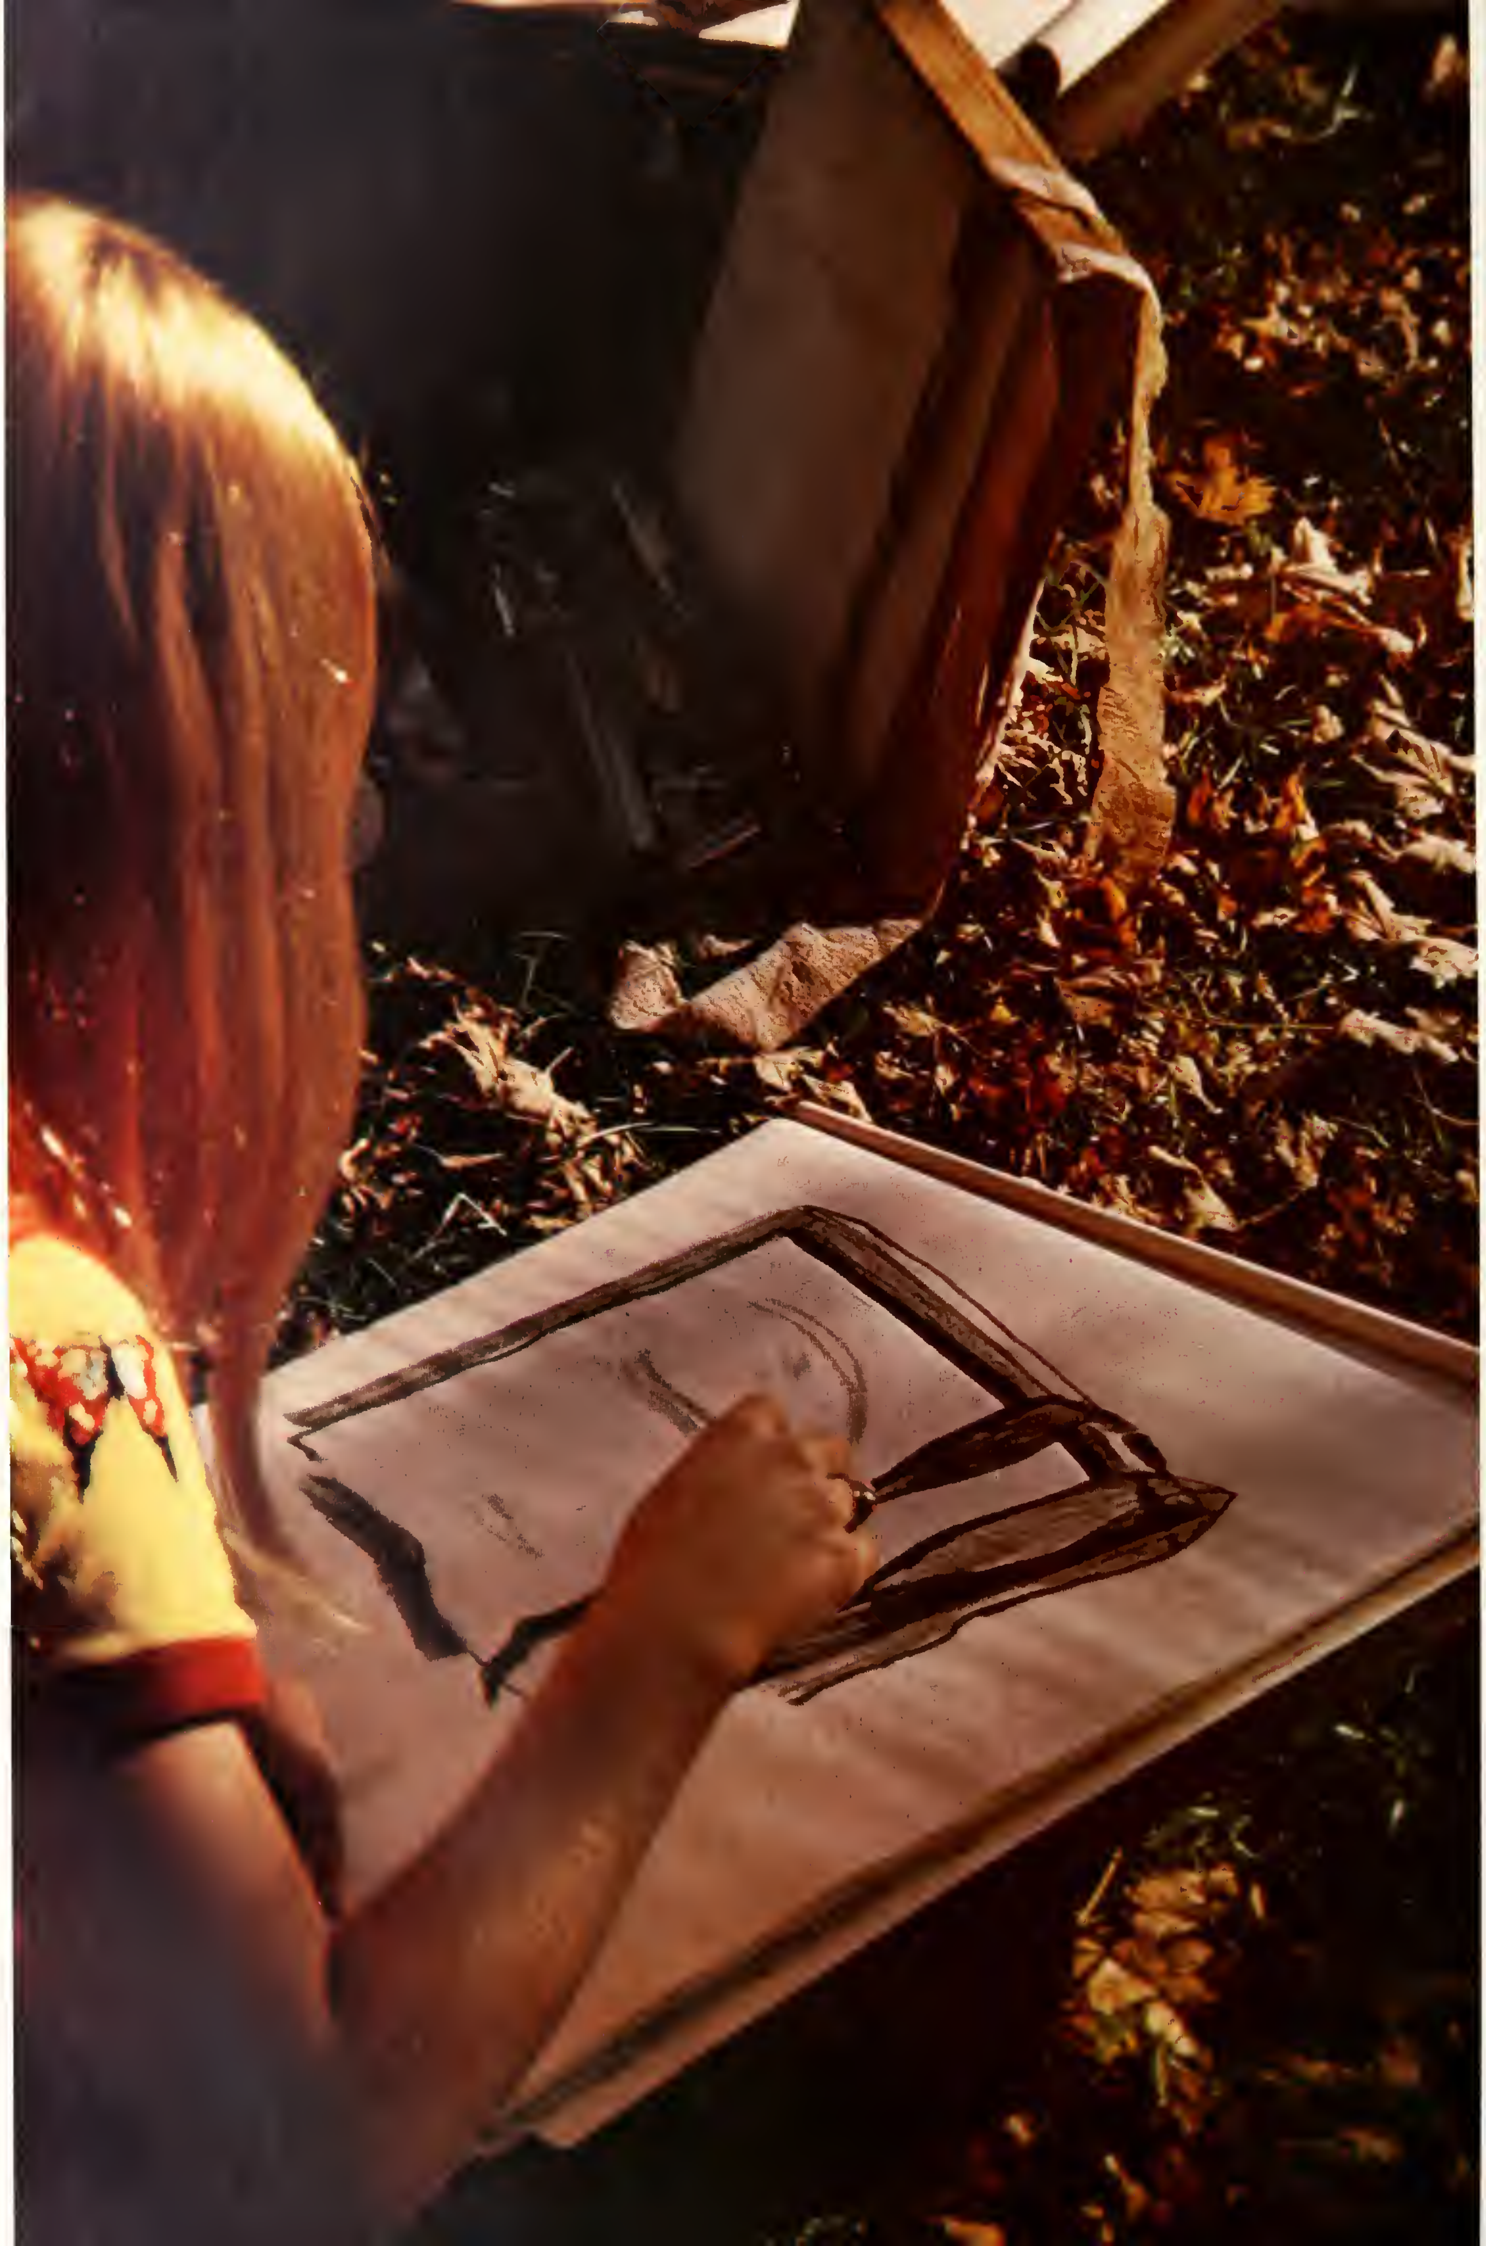
There is, so legend holds, at the end of each rainbow a pot-o'-gold. At the heart of the legend lies one of man's noblest instincts, the pursuit of excellence and the drive for self-improvement. This Golden Milestone follows its predecessors in reporting the nurturing and development of this instinct at the society in microcosm that is Eastern Kentucky University.

341104

Not in quest of anything so nebulous as the end of a rainbow, many came to Eastern with quite specific aims. Others came seeking direction. But, whatever their motivation, they were united in purpose.



All sought to learn. And the vehicles were myriad. The University, through gifts of nature and fruits of man's labor and knowledge, was a catalyst for formative skills, thoughts and philosophies.

This is not to say that the University was a panacea, a utopian society for those who lived here, but rather that it provided the opportunity for those in pursuit of goals. And, the resources were seemingly as diverse as the individuals assembled here.

What's on a map?
UNIMPROVED ROADS LOOK LIKE THIS TRAILS LOOK LIKE THIS
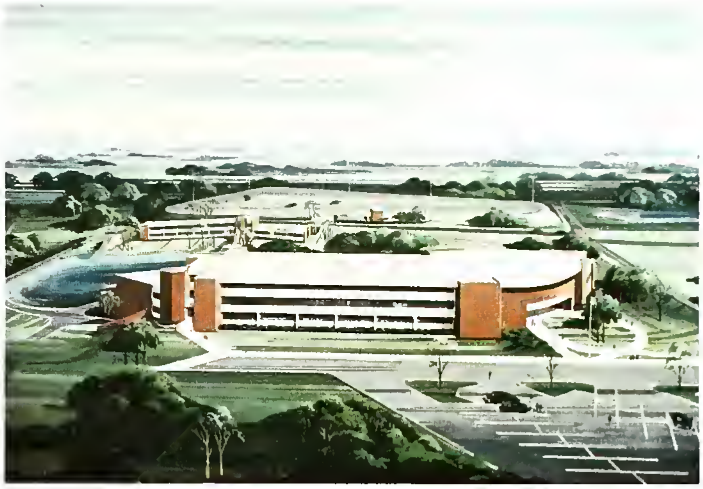
LOOK LIKE THIS

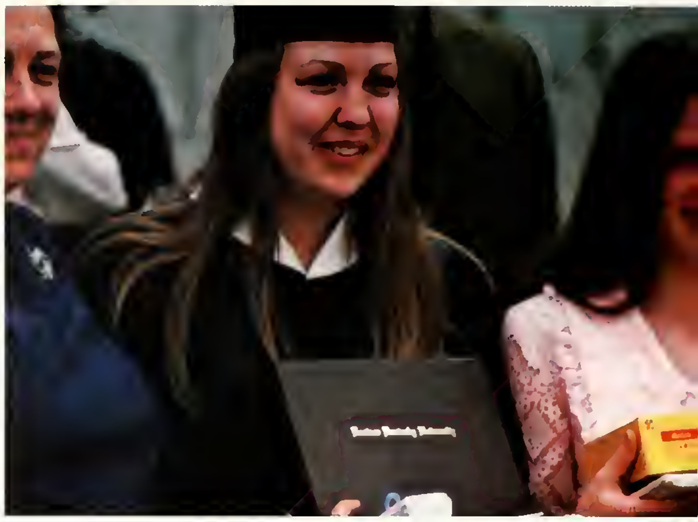
The natural beauty of the campus was not the least of student means. "Beauty," said Thoreau, "is its own excuse for being," and Eastern offered the tools for developing sensitivity to Nature's gifts.

The gifts of mankind's productivity were also here from which to draw. Within the walls of manmade edifices, minds tapped the world's accumulated knowledge.



In the planning and building of new structures and revitalization of traditional landmarks the University reaffirmed its commitment to continue as a responsible institution while retaining links with its heritage of educational service.

On this campus of learning and beauty, those in quest of dreams communed with themselves, with others and with nature. In the process, hopefully, were formed viable relationships and values.



Then, one in that series of pursuits which constitute life came to an end for many. It was not, however, a stopping place — a figurative pot-o'-gold — they had reached. For them, looming forever ahead, was the next rainbow.

UNIVERSITY LIFE

Fall Semester Registers 12,341

With summer over, students returned to Richmond for another year. Some for their first; some for their last. A record number of students arrived on campus raising total enrollment to an all-time high of 12,341, including a 10,580 on-campus record.

After perhaps one day of preparation, registration began and lines mounted with the increased enrollment. Lessening the hassel a bit, Eastern continued its pre-registration and orientation program for incoming freshmen.

BOG Fair
. . . Action

Included in the major Greek events of the year was the BOG County Fair. Both sororities and fraternities sponsored booths holding such sporting events as ring tossing, pie throwing, and kissing. The Fair was open to Greeks and independents with both participating in contests like stilt walking, arm wrestling, cider drinking, and turtle racing. Trophies were given to the winners in all events. The Fair ended with a dance in Burnam Hall where the trophies for the best booth and most spirit were given.

Bike Race, Powder Puff Highlight Fall Activity

Two of the many events held in the fall were the DU Bike Race and the Powder Puff football game. Drawing numerous spectators, these events highlighted the first few weeks of the fall semester. Spending their leisure time to its fullest, many students participated in these and other activities as a new semester got under way.

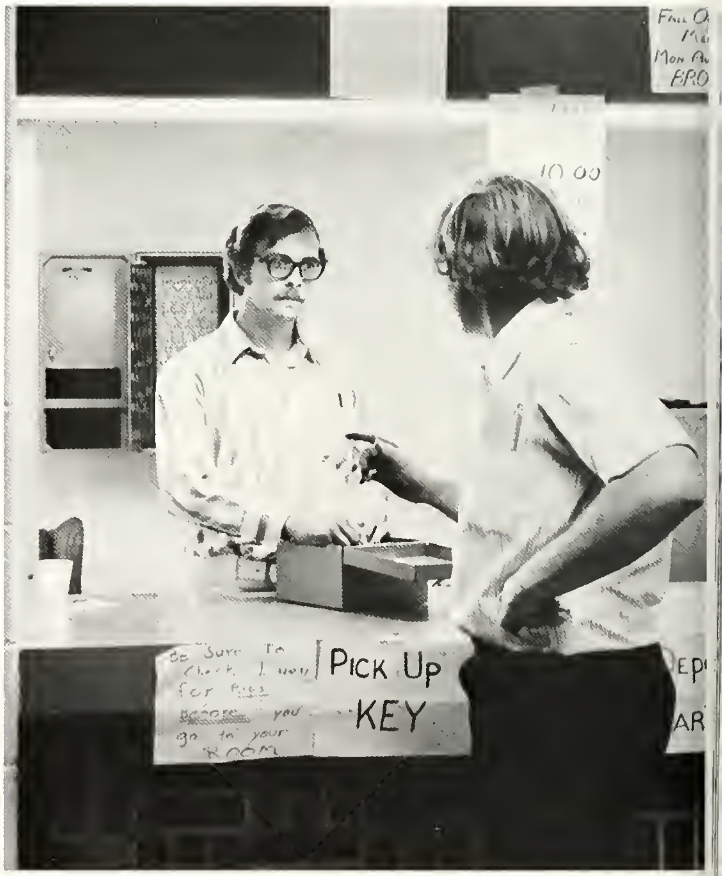
Students Adjust to New Way of Life

Moving into dormitories was quite an experience for many students, and for some it was almost unending chore. Parents were often cajoled into helping to lend a hand . . . fathers helping to carry in boxes, while the mothers were busily arranging the room.

Favorite posters and colorful objects were placed skillfully on the walls and around the rooms to add a personal touch as well as a little color to the surroundings. After seeing old friends and talking over the summer's excitements, students soon settled down to begin the busy schedule for fall semester.



Above: Checking into the dorm is one of the necessary evils of each semester. Top: Visiting parents take in the campus view from their daughter's room in Case Hall.

Coming back to school in the fall after the long summer involves some sad goodbyes.

Some lucky students had their parents with them to help unload and unpack all the boxes, bags, and suitcases.

Almost every need of the student was added in the remodeled store, including drinking glasses and monogrammed souvenir glasses.

This coed takes advantage of the extended and more varied assortment of greeting cards. Left: An orderly and well-spaced arrangement of books, pamphlets, supplies, and teaching aides enables students and faculty quick and an easy access to needed supplies. Here Regent John Keith, Jr., browses.

University Store Doubles Facilities

Fall semester marked the opening of the completely remodeled and expanded University Store. The total floor space and quantity of supplies had nearly doubled in size. The old grill of the Keen Johnson Building had provided for part of the enlargement as well as the totally new University Center.

There were many additions to the store including first-time items such as tennis shoes, guitars, sports equipment and a candy counter. Included to a greater extent was a more adequate supply of textbooks, study guides, art supplies, and reference books. The University Store also increased its supply of health and beauty aides, greeting cards, and stationery supplies. The large expansion helped to meet the growing demands of the large student body.

Dorm Life: A Unique Experience

Dorm living proved to be an experience that residents would never forget. Dorm rooms were study rooms, dens, kitchens, and bedrooms all wrapped into one.

Students learned to cope with the endless noise of blaring radios and stereos, shouting neighbors, ringing phones, and false fire alarms.

Dorm rooms were not often ideal places to study due to the noise and interruptions. Invitations to go downtown, watch TV, or pop popcorn proved to be too much to concentrate well for tomorrow's test.

Dorm life had its advantages, however. It was a place to meet friends, borrow needed paraphernalia, or always have someone to talk to at lonely times. Dorm life could never be replaced by off-campus living. It was unique, inexpensive and fun.

Refrigerators Made Available

Fall 1972 was a first for the legalization of refrigerators in student dormitory rooms and the response to their availability was great. In order to provide for the student's needs the University Store ordered a large supply of refrigerators initially, and later had to reorder. Students were also allowed to provide their own refrigerators and pay an electrical fee. With these refrigerators students stocked up on sandwich meats, snacks, and cold drinks which allowed them to snack after the food services closed.

Dorm Activities Increase Interests

In its third year of operation, the residence hall program under the direction of Miss Mary M. Glass and Mr. Ben Nankivell grew to include 15 special programs and activities. Residence hall programming was a new program which had as its purpose the providing of special activities and programs for residence hall students. These programs were financed through the budget of the program director and dorm dues.

These activities included weekly interest groups and special programs on relevant issues. Some of these topics included bridge lessons, quilting bees, knitting lessons, sign language lessons, trips to the Barn Dinner Theatre, and Faculty talent shows.

Often common activities were planned between men and women's residence halls, such as dances at Telford Hall and coffee houses at Martin.

Although the ideas of residence halls were relatively new, they acted as entertainment as well as educational outlets for dorm residents.

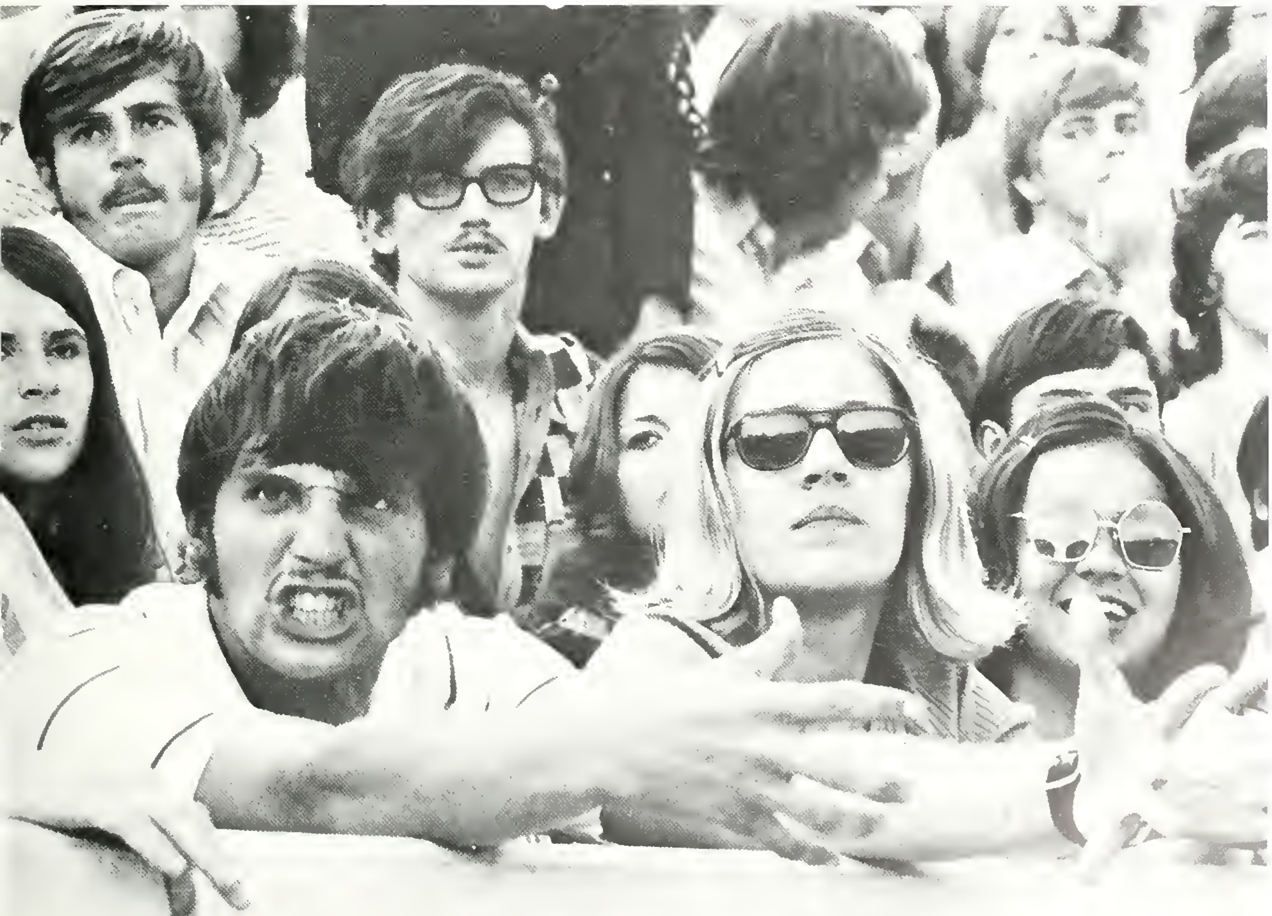
Spirited Students Attend Home Games

Home football games were generally well attended, but faithful throughout wins or losses were the spirited students who were seen at all home Colonels' games.

Although not claiming a winning season, team supporters shouted strong encouragements and cries for victory. Bad weather posed another problem for sports viewers. Rainy and bitter cold days held off many students, but the dedicated faithful still came and cheered for the Colonels.

Go, Go, Go! . . . Oh, No!



Friendly Atmosphere Surrounds Grill

In its second year of operation, the new grill became a popular place for students and faculty. The grill was a spot for relaxation, socializing, studying, and, of course, eating.

Students gathered there and endured the ever-present long lines for the breakfast special, lunch or evening meals. Some students visiting the grill found it to be a good place to study, catch up on the newspaper or make new friends.

Faculty were often seen in the grill enjoying a quick cup of coffee or a short lunch during noon hours. The carefree atmosphere of the grill explained its popularity from early morning breakfast to the late midnight snackers.

Snow Provides Winter Playground

Kentucky's unpredictable weather brought the usual winter surprises. The winter was generally mild, and included spring-like days in January, cold rains, dreary days and light snowfalls.

Although the snow accumulation never exceeded two inches on campus, students were drawn out in force at the sign of finding possible sites for winter sport. Many students were out looking for slick spots on ravine sidewalks and hills, places for snowball fights or simply to enjoy the picturesque transformation of the dull winter campus into a bright and beautiful scene.

Above: The ravine sidewalks prove to be suitable for sledding. Below: This coed vividly portrays the fun she experienced sliding down the ravine sidewalk.

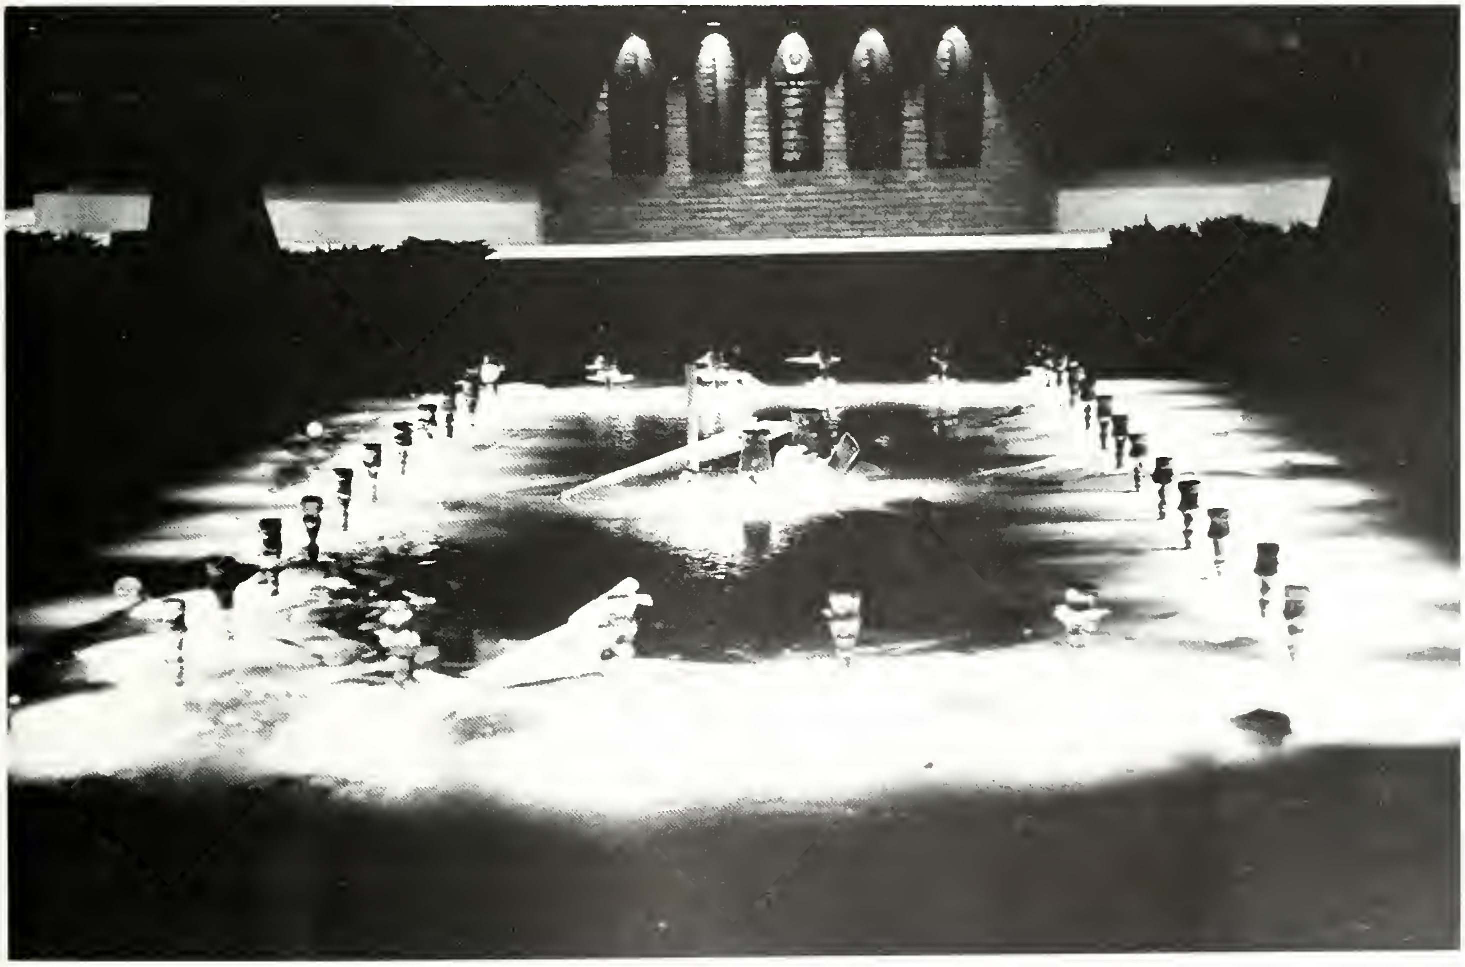
Flowing Fountain Intrigues Students

Located on the plaza of the University Center, the fountain was a meeting place where students enjoyed beauty on warm sunny days and sat around the edges and relaxed.

In the evenings the fountain, lighted by bright lights, was popular with the students. Some students cooled off in the water on warm evenings, and others watched the water sparkling over the lights.

As warm weather ended, and the cold days set in, fewer students visited the plaza area. The fountain was turned off and drained by the workmen. Freezing temperatures and rain water again transformed the quiet fountain into a spot of beauty in the cold winter days.

Left: The edge of the fountain is a place to view the activities in the plaza and get a little sun. Below: A freezing evening transforms the quiet fountain into a winter's delight.



Groundbreakings Mark Expansion

Construction activity continued on widespread corners of the University campus as the Jane F. Campbell Building, begun in 1971, pressed toward completion and work was begun on the Law Enforcement-Traffic Safety Center.

Renovations were completed on the Ault and Keen Johnson buildings and plans were made for the revitalization of the Fitzpatrick Building. Also in the planning stage was a building to service the Department of Nursing and the Student Health Service.

Right and below: Early stages ot construction of the Jane F. Campbell Building continues through the unpredictable Kentucky weather. Opposite: A surveyor's transit is pictured as boundary lines are laid for the fine arts building.

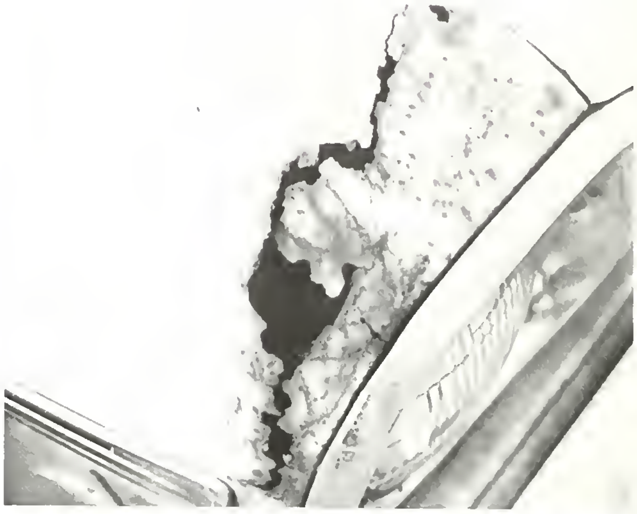
Pollution . . .
Campus Issue

Pollution and littering were major issues at all universities and colleges in the nation. They were issues that could not go unnoticed.

Eastern, too, was hit by these problems. Careless students tossed debris on the ground, cars produced toxic emissions, industry spewed malodorous fumes, and smokestacks billowed.

People clamored for changes, but the littering and pollution continued as balance was sought between the needs of man and nature.

Signs of pollution and littering spot the campus (right) as this student demonstrates his concern for the environment.



The vending machines in the ad building was one of the most popular places for in-between class snacks.

Vending Machines: Mixed Blessings

Vending machines were an important element of campus living and their coin slots and levers were found in every dorm and major building.

The machines provided foodstuffs for breakfast, lunch and dinner for students catching quick snacks. Because of their necessity, signs reading "out-of-order" were greeted with great displeasure.

But, worse than the tell-tale sign was discovering first hand a machine malfunction. Typical example: Insert coin, push button and either (No coke) or (No Cup) or worse (tilted cup and wet feet).

Kicks, bangs and unmentionable remarks were often directed at these inanimate machines . . . whose very need made frustration greater when they failed.

Stickers Express Ideas

Bumper stickers have long been a favorite fad for expressing one's thoughts, especially on political preferences and much visited tourist spots. Now bumper stickers have become a major way of expressing thoughts on all subjects from pollution to sex. As in many other areas of the United States, students, teachers, and administrators on campus followed the trend. Their thoughts and often strong beliefs were displayed on the bumper stickers printed in bright colors, large letters, and shapes to catch another's eye.

Center Board Presents Famous Performers

The University Center Board brought to campus this year a large number of celebrities who appealed to audiences of diverse interests. The fall activities began with a performance by mentalist Kreskin in Hiram Brock Auditorium. Funded by the Garvice Kincaid Lecture Series, Art Linkletter spoke to students in Alumni Coliseum on the dangers of drug abuse. Well-known author and social critic, Vance Packard, came to speak of the ideal American society.

Other famous-name lecturers scheduled on the Board's Fine Arts and Lecture Series included Congresswoman Shirley Chisholm and population expert Paul Erlich. Concerts presented by the Center Board included the President's Anniversary Concert by John Jacob Niles and spring semester performances by Bob Hope and Duke Ellington.

'Servant' Employs Unique Style

"The Servant of Two Masters," a play written in the Italian Commedia dell'arte style, was one of the five productions presented by the University Players this season. Unique staging and style were employed to produce a comic effect, in this play about a servant who attempted to secretly serve two masters at once.

Concerts Aim at Varied Musical Interests

Providing something for everyone, this year's concerts presented by the University Center Board were among the best-attended events at Eastern. Native Kentuckian Jackie DeShannon along with the Association entertained the near capacity crowd at the first concert of the year. Adding a soulful touch to the occasion, Roberta Flack performed well-known selections, including her hit song "The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face" during her Homecoming-Eve concert.

Performing in a triple-feature concert, Rick Nelson and the Stone Canyon Band, the Grass Roots, and Denny Brooks again drew a capacity crowd to the Alumni Coliseum. Other performances during the year included the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band, the Earl Scruggs Review, and hard-rock group Quicksilver.

After the closing of the Derby, Sigma Chi held a party where the "Spirit Award" was presented to Kappa Delta sorority.

Fall's Colors Activity Stage

The vibrant colors of fall forecast the coming of winter. The campus squirrels foraged for their hoard of food and students enjoyed the fleeting moments of shortening afternoons to frolic in a ravine carpeted by leaves.

But, the coming of autumn also signaled the time for the last big outdoor flings of the fall semester . . . Band Day and Homecoming.

Gala Band Day Event Draws 3,000 High Schoolers

More than 50 Kentucky high school bands provided colorful and entertaining music for viewers of the half-time show at the Colonels-Middle Tennessee football game as part of the annual High School Band Day. About 3,000 bandsmen dressed in distinctive uniforms participated in a parade earlier that October 7th morning. The bands marched both through downtown Richmond and on campus playing music which ranged from movie themes to military marches.

The massive combined band made up of the high school students from throughout Kentucky performed with the Marching Maroons, making the 1972 Band Day the biggest ever.

The elements of Band Day — instruments, bandsmen and onlookers of all ages — combine for a fall extravaganza that excited thousands of parade watchers and football fans. The Colonels cooperated too, by blanking Middle Tennessee 13-0.

Happiness Is . . . Homecoming '72

For the third consecutive year, the weather proved uncooperative for the annual Homecoming festivities. But, the Homecoming theme, Happiness is . . . was not hampered by the foggy and rainy day. Students had worked throughout the week constructing floats in local warehouses with themes such as, "Happiness is making horsemeat out of the Racers" or . . . "putting the Racers out to pasture."

Fifteen queen finalists chosen earlier from a field of 62 pre-candidates rode in convertibles along with the multi-colored floats throughout the parade route encompassing the main streets of downtown Richmond and Lancaster Avenue.

Rain, Defeat Fail to Dampen Festive Spirits

Although the inclement weather hung on until game time, ceremonies continued with the crowning of Miss Teresa Wilson as 1972 Homecoming Queen. Also during the pre-game activities, the Covington Cup was given to Dr. Robert Martin in honor of the late 1971 Homecoming Queen Miss Marie Covington.

On a rain-soaked field, the hopes of the injury riddled Colonels took a severe setback as the Murray Racers triumphed 7-3.

Fog, dampness, and a football loss caused Homecoming '72 to slip quietly into history, with many memorable moments tucked away.

All Campus Activities Revolve Around Class

Predominant of student activities were classes. And the academic situations were as diverse as the students themselves. Whether lab, lecture or independent study, the classroom was the central issue that more or less dictated the amount of time available for other activities.

To supplement class attendance, students are required to do additional research in the library and in laboratories.

Animals Frequent Campus Scene

Animals were always topics of interest on campus. Roaming freely or walking on leashes with their owners, animals of varied sorts were frequent visitors.

Some students illegally possessed animals in their dorm rooms including such assortments as hamsters, guinea pigs, pygmy snakes or cats. The animals were concealed during room checks and many went unnoticed.

Campus was also a setting where Richmond residents and off-campus students had leisurely walks with their pets.

The campus itself was a haven for small wild animals. The ravine was the home for the inquisitive grey squirrel and the chattering birds. Students enjoyed the animals' presence and they added to the beauty of the campus.

"Short Semester" Added for Spring

Spring semester registration began with a little less confusion for students, due to pre-registration that had taken place earlier in December. Although many students registered early, the familiar long lines and closed classes occurred. The auxiliary gym was filled with students waiting for advisors' signatures, more class cards, and solutions to changed class schedules. After paying fees, students anxiously left the turmoil of registration.

Eastern's enrollment for the spring semester was again up from the previous year. Registration offered more than 2,500 classes, making it the most varied curriculum ever offered at Eastern.

Included in new programs for the spring semester was the initiation of the new "short semester." This program offered high school students who graduated in December or February the opportunity to begin their college study in early March.

Floor conferences held by students on schedule changes and additions are a common sight.

Museum Rebuilds Authentic Cabin

Filled with more than 260,000 volumes, the John Crabbe Library contained facilities that aided the student in every area of study. The solitude of the library caused it to become one of the best places for serious study.

The library provided equipment which included copying machines, microfilm auditors, dial access, and visual aides. Some of materials open for student use was a periodical room where students kept up to date with fashions, sports and scientific literature.

Under the direction of Miss Jane Munson, curator of the library museum, work was being completed on a log cabin filled with objects handmade by Kentucky residents. This cabin was open to student viewing and was a step in transforming the present museum into a Kentuckiana Museum.

Spring Lures Students to Outdoor Activity

Spring's warm weather lured student activity into the outdoors as a new season began for Eastern's athletic teams. Tennis, baseball, track, and golf began along with numerous Greek activities as the spring semester grew short and hopes for the summer grew long.

Bike Racks Installed on Campus

Bicycles hit campus last year, and numbers kept on rising. With increased parking problems and high gasoline prices more students turned to two wheels for transportation. Bicycles were found everywhere, locked on light poles, staircases, fire hydrants and stored in dorm recreation rooms.

In order to accommodate this large influx of bikes, bicycle racks were approved by the Board of Regents and installed throughout the campus.

Above: Before the installation of the bicycle racks, students find any possible place to lock their bike that couldn't be carried away. Right center: Bicycling is one of the most popular and relaxing ways to pass a warm spring afternoon.

Bikes were considered by many students to be absolute necess ties that had to be brought back to the campus in the fall.

Spring Fever Competes With Mid-Term Exams

Spring came early to the Eastern campus this year. The first week of March brought a week of temperatures in the 70's and brought mid-terms and spring fever into head-to-head competition for student attention.

Students spilled onto the campus, glad to be outdoors after a not-too-cold, but generally wet winter.

Fancies Turned by Springtime

With the presence of spring, love became the major thought in the minds of many. In the grill, at the fountain, or strolling through the ravine, couples could be seen.

Aside from all the hustle and bustle of campus activities, spring was also a time for thinking about all the year's good times. A quiet walk through the ravine, couples time and place for reflecting on the past and dreaming about the future.

Finals Cause Anxious Moments

Finals week was a time of hard studying, cramming, sleepless nights, and anxious moments. After the many hours of preparation, times of remorse occurred. Students wished that they had spent more time studying and more time preparing. Moments of forgetfulness approached on the faces of students as test time came and went.

Students counted the moments till the finals would be over. There were now able to head for home and relax after the hard week and wait for their grades.

Taking her last test during finals week, Sue Anderson rechecks her paper.

Graduation Fulfills Hopes and Dreams

With the completion of finals, graduating seniors prepared for their last undergraduate activity at Eastern. Commencement exercises brought to a close years of hard work and learning. Along with many fond memories, graduation presented a sense of reality to past expectations. Fulfilling the dreams of many proud parents, graduation ended with the presentation of degrees by President Robert R. Martin to the Class of '73.

Governor Ford Helps Break Ground

Governor Wendell H. Ford was a key figure in two major campus events during 1972-73.

His first appearance came at the groundbreaking ceremonies for the Law Enforcement-Traffic Safety Center October 18. He was scheduled to deliver the commencement address and to receive an honorary doctorate at the May graduation exercises.

Praising Eastern's involvement in law enforcement education, he said ". . . the University should be commended for integrating it into the overall academic program. It can't help but get stronger."

Governor Ford started the implementation of his program for the reorganization of state government during 1972. He drew national attention twice in February when he addressed the Yale Political Union and was one of several governors who spoke before Congressional committees concerning the proposed federal budget.

Board of Regents Sells Construction Bonds

resident Martin presents his quarterly report at a Board of egents meeting.

The University's policy making body — the Board of Regents — had much of their 1972-73 activity centered around the Law Enforcement-Traffic Safety Center.

In two significant meetings, the Board voted approval of the project October 4 and sold bonds to finance construction of the $6.5 million structure February 6. Interim approval of the project had come from the State Council on Public Higher Education and the State Department of Finance.

Earlier in the year the Board voted to adopt a self-regulated hours program for women students after having studied the system for a year on a trial basis. Approval of the 1973-74 institutional budget was another major function of the Board.

The Board members, appointed to four year terms by the Governor, are successful men who have made significant contributions in their professions. Student and faculty representatives, elected by their peers, were given voting privileges this year.

Dr. Martin Ends Year As AASCU President

President Robert R. Martin marked his 13th year as Eastern's sixth president with a continuation of his role of educational leadership at both state and national levels.

His active year as president of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities — an organization whose members enroll one-fourth of the nation's college students — came to an end in November.

He was credited by Dr. Darrell Holmes, AASCU past president, as bringing the Association this year to "a new level of accomplishment and maturity: not only are we the largest ever . . . but we also have seen the fruition of a comprehensive and highly effective program designed to impact national legislative policy."

As president of the association, Dr. Martin worked with congressional leaders and testified before committees to secure passage of the Higher Education Bill in the 1972 session of Congress.

Locally, Dr. Martin led the fight to retain Eastern's Kentucky leadership in law enforcement education following the release of a consultant's study suggesting fragmentation of existing programs here.

He also maintained the academic and physical development of the University and directed planning for the observance of a centennial of higher education on the campus, scheduled to begin in July. Eastern traces its lineage to the founding of Central University here in 1874.

Dr. Powell Directs University Fiscal Affairs

Dr. J. C. Powell, Vice President for Administration, exercised authority in the fiscal affairs of the University. Dr. Powell had as one of his major assignments the preparation of Eastern's internal budget.

The organization of bond issues for construction projects and development of applications for federal funds for construction were among other responsibilities assigned to the office. The bond issue for the Law Enforcement-Traffic Safety Center was the main issue, with the building scheduled to be completed in 1975.

Dr. Powell was also responsible for the direction and supervision of the Office of Internal Auditor, Division of Safety and Security, and Division of Data Processing.

Programs Grow; Research Secures Grant

The direction of scholastic programs for a record on-campus enrollment of 10,580 students was the task of Dr. John D. Rowlett, who served as acting Vice President for Academic Affairs. Dr. Rowlett also continued his responsibilities as Vice President for Research and Development.

New graduate and undergraduate degree programs swelled the University's total number of major programs to 171. They ranged in scope from 25 two-year associate-of-arts degrees to some 52 graduate level offerings.

Facilities to service growing academic programs included the Presnell Building, the Thomas E. McDonough Intramural Fields and conversion of space in the Ault and Weaver buildings. Construction continued on the Jane F Campbell Building and work was commenced o the Law Enforcement-Traffic Safety Center.

The Office of Research and Developmen worked as the liaison agency between Easter and governmental offices. Dr. Rowlett worke with faculty in securing federal grants for a variety of academic programs.

Grant support was received for more than 4 programs, coming from both public and privat funding agencies. The office's Division of Institutional Research, under the direction of Dr. R Dean Acker, administered the undergraduate an graduate record examinations and conducte research projects on a variety of subjects.

Student Affairs Areas Increase Services

Spearheaded by Vice President Thomas D. Myers, divisions of the Office of Student Affairs extended their activities and services. The office was responsible for admissions, financial aid, housing, health services, orientation, student activities, and social adjustment and counseling.

The Counseling Center made use of additional rooms in Ellendale Hall for assisting students in educational-vocational goal-planning and curricular choice. The center also acted as a referral agent for the University psychiatric services. Student Health Services were increased with the addition of a second physician.

Miss Janet Hibbard awaits her next query in the Ombudsman's Powell Building Office.

The Ombudsman's Job Is to Listen

The office of Ombudsman, created in 1969 by the Board of Regents, was occupied this year by Miss Janet G. Hibbard on the recommendation of President Martin. She became the fourth faculty member and the first woman to hold the office.

Miss Hibbard received requests, concerns, and grievances of the student body. She discussed these problems with the students, then referred them to the proper university officials. She also made recommendations to President Martin regarding campus problems.

Business Affairs Steps Up Activities

The Office of Business Affairs coordinated all phases of the university program where financial matters were concerned. Headed by Vice President Neal Donaldson, the office was responsible for accounting and budgetary control, operation and maintenance of the physical plant and grounds, purchasing, and the operation of auxiliary enterprises and services.

Such things as the Donaldson Service Complex and the food service components of the University Center broadened the scope of operation. New services included refrigerator rental, increased check cashing facilities, laundry and dry cleaning facilities, and a barber shop. With the renovation of the Keen Johnson Building completed, the University Store provided expanded services.

Public Affairs Interprets Program

The office of Public Affairs, headed by Vice President Donald R. Feltner, strove to improve communications both within the University Community and with EKU's various publics.

Special events, beginning with the dedication of the Chapel of Meditation in May, were a major activity of the office. President Martin's 13th Anniversary in office, plaque and portrait unveilings, the reopening of the Keen Johnson Building and Founders Day were among the programs coordianted by the office.

University-School Relations and the Office of Alumni Affairs continued their annual Band Day, Alumni Day and Homecoming activities.

Placement and News and Publications activities increased. The printing of two-year supplies of several official publications and other measures resulted in substantial savings.

"FYI," the on-campus newsletter, continued its weekly chronicling of coming events and official announcements. Equipment was added to speed the reporting of news to the media.

CUC Increases Course Offerings

Central University College, Eastern's general studies and academic advising organization, added courses to its curricula and hosted a regional conference that attracted visiting scholars from eight states.

Directed by Dean Clyde J. Lewis, CUC continued its function of enrolling incoming freshmen in its general studies program and provided the new students with concentrated academic advisement.

Added to the CUC course offering was a college colloquium which could be taken for credit during the spring semester. An Experimental Writing Lab was developed to assist students in English composition and the Learning Lab continued its programs offering a "second chance" to students experiencing problems adjusting to college study. The Learning Lab also offered a program in speedreading to the University community.

The Department of Social Science, in cooperation with the International Society for the Comparative Study of Civilizations, hosted a regional conference for scholars in the social sciences to exchange cross-cultural information.

CUC continued to operate a pre-registration program for freshmen during the summer months.

The CUC Academic Counseling and Learning Laboratory under the direction of Mrs. Ann Algier was moved to a new location in the Bert Combs Building.

Emphasis was placed on efficient learning, essay writing, test taking material and vocalizing in class. Students were placed in small groups where major course concepts were considered, discussed, and clarified. Resources such as films, tape recordings, and outside reading material supplemented material already available to the student.

A project to interest veterans in returning to college was instituted this year. Graduate students assisted in the development and the continuing of the Learning Laboratory.

Eastern's ROTC Goes Coeducational

Eastern was selected as one of ten Universities which this year began offering Army Reserve Officer Training Corps programs to women. The program was started as a five-year pilot project that, for the first time, permitted women to be commissioned as second lieutenants through Army ROTC participation. EKU was also one of two schools to provide military police branch training.

Twenty-three women cadets were enrolled during fall registration. They were required to complete most of the same basic courses as men students including training in basic military subjects, military history, and leadership techniques.

Women participated only in the four-year ROTC program. They were eligible to compete for all types of scholarships on the same schedule as the male students. A modified summer camp has been planned to begin in the summer of 1975.

Arts and Technology Continues New Facilities

The College of Applied Arts and Technology improved and expanded the scope of several departments under the direction of Dr. William Sexton, dean of the college.

In the Department of Agriculture, there were few changes, but completion of a third greenhouse for ornamental horticulture brought new prospects for horticulture majors.

Industrial education and industrial technology expanded and moved into the first and second level of the Ault Building. The conversion project added two woodworking laboratories, a finishing room, laboratories for power mechanics and fluid power, and additional office space.

The Home Economics Department improved specialized laboratories in the Burrier Building. Included additions were fume hoods, an emergency shower, and other safety features.

Plans were underway for construction of a building to house programs in the Department of Nursing and to provide expanded student health services.

Groundbreaking for the Law Enforcement and Traffic Safety Complex was completed in the Fall of 1972. Governor Wendell Ford and other state and local officials participated in the exercises. Construction began during the spring semester, 1973 with scheduled completion during 1975.

Dean William Sexton listens to proposed changes in the plans for curriculum development in his college.

Programs Expanded, Ault Renovated

Several courses were added to the Industrial Technology curriculum. A variety of special problems courses, a military science option, and a new course in integrated circuits on the graduate level were among those courses offered. The graduate program has steadily increased since its establishment two years ago.

Dr. Kenneth S. Hansson, head of the Industrial Technology Department, attended several conferences including the National Association of Industrial Technology in Memphis and the American Technology Society in Atlanta. With the renovation of the Ault Building complete, the department moved its power mechanics and wood and wood technology labs into the new facilities.

The newly renovated Ault Building was also used by the Industrial Education Department. The chairman of the department, Dr. Clyde O. Craft, attended the Kentucky Industrial Education Association conference which was held in Louisville. Dr. Jack Luy and Mr. Dale Patrick contributed a shop math text and electronic text books. The annual Student Craftsman's Fair was held in the spring, featuring student work.

Dream Comes True at Groundbreaking

This fall groundbreaking ceremonies were held for a multi-million dollar Law Enforcement-Traffic Safety Center. This dream was finally realized after three years of planning. The proposed completion date has been set in 1975.

The School of Law Enforcement was begun in 1966 with a class of 47 students. The School has increased to some 2,346 majors and minors. A major in criminalistics has been in the planning stages along with a Kiwanis-Law Enforcement workshop on campus disorder. Five full-time faculty members were added to the staff.

The Traffic Safety Institute under the direction of Leslie H. Leach has added several new programs including driver education teacher preparation program, breathalyzer program, and driver license examination program. Mr. Leach was appointed by Governor Ford as vice chairman of the Traffic Safety Coordinating Committee.

The Department of Agriculture involved students, faculty, and other area residents with new activities and additional facilities. The greenhouse was opened to add to the facilities available to horticulture students. A tractor pulling contest, which was nationally sanctioned, was held at the Madison County Fairgrounds.

The first annual meeting of the Kentucky Turfgrass Council was held on campus. Dr. Dwight G. Barkley was elected executive secretary of the Council. The Council was organized for turfgrass research and promotion and to bring Kentucky recognition as a leading state in the turfgrass industry.

Nursing Enrollment Continues Upswing

The Department of Nursing continued to aid in the alleviation of nurse shortages through the Pikeville Cooperative Nursing Project. This project was instituted to help economically deprived students. The forty-two students alternated one semester of work and one semester of study. This project was funded by HEW in cooperation with the Pikeville Model Cities agency.

There was a 35 percent increase in enrollment. The Nurse Capitation Grant and the Allied Health Grant for Medical Records were among several grants awarded to the Nursing Department. The staff and students of the department attended several conventions including the Kentucky Association of Nursing Students Convention and the Southern Regional Education Board.

Several meetings and conventions were attended by the faculty including the State and National Diabetic Association, the State Interior Design Association, and the National Conference for Textile Teachers. A workshop was held by the Kentucky Nutrition Council. Professional Dietetic organizations attended the "Nutrition in Action" workshop on campus.

Art and Sciences Gain Programs, Grants

Under the leadership of Dean Frederic D. Ogden, three new master's degree programs were initiated in the College of Arts and Sciences. These programs were an M.A. in sociology, an M.A. in Education with an emphasis in general science and an M.M. with specialization in performance in music. A new Bachelor of Arts degree was established in chemistry. In conjunction with other colleges, Arts and Sciences established several new courses in the area of adult education.

The college has approved two new Bachelor of Science programs which will be offered for the first time in 1973-74. These programs, under the jurisdiction of the Department of Biological Sciences, are in environmental resources and microbiology.

All departments have emphasized the improvement of their programs and course offerings. Many existing courses have been revised with additional courses added in most areas. Continued attention has been given to the improvement of the facilities and equipment.

Under the auspices of the National Science Foundation, the College Science Improvement Program (COSIP) assisted the biology, chemistry, geology, and physics departments in the improvement of instruction in these areas.

Continued growth occurred in the graduate programs. The programs in biology, English, geology, history, music, public administration, and psychology had an especially strong response. In public administration faculty members conducted classes in Frankfort to enable state employees to participate in this program.

Chemistry Department Installs Equipment

Financed by a grant from the COSIP (College Science Improvement Program), a complete renovation of the freshman laboratory welcomed first semester chemistry students to Eastern this year.

Dr. Harry M. Smiley, departmental chairman, reported a significant increase in the Chemistry 101 enrollment, as well as steady growth in the graduate program.

Eastern's Department of Chemistry also installed a nuclear magnetic resonance spectrometer in its laboratories, for use in projects in organic chemistry. The Dow Chemical Company, in turn, donated a used computer to complement this spectrometer.

Biology Department Emphasizes Ecology

The Department of Biological Sciences, headed by Dr. Edwin A. Hess, broadened research opportunities to students. The increased availability of research projects in both undergraduate and graduate areas allowed study of advanced techniques in the areas of ecology, fisheries, genetics, microbiology, and wildlife.

To correlate with the more advanced studies, new equipment such as the liquid scintillator counter, freeze dryer, electron microscope, and a gas chromatograph were obtained.

Financial aid was received from the National Science Foundation and a COSIP grant for curricula improvement. Faculty and students attended conventions and workshops in Ohio, Illinois, North Carolina, Florida, Alabama, and Kentucky for new techniques in electrophretic chamber studies, parasitology, curriculum study, and phycology.

Psychology Acquires Research Facilities

Under the leadership of Dr. James A. Lee, chairman of the psychology department, there had been continued growth in departmental curricula and facilities. New graduate courses were proposed in Cognitive Processes and Experimental Personality while a new two-semester experimental sequence has been implemented for majors and minors.

Current facilities were expanded by the acquisition of new lab space in the Memorial Science Building and the Alumni Coliseum. Research equipment was also increased with the addition of an operant conditioning and brain-behavior apparatus.

Mathematicians Publish Articles

Two new mathematics courses were proposed for general education credit, titled Finite Mathematics and Computers in the Modern World. The calculating machines laboratory received four electronic calculators to add to the others already in use.

Dr. Bennie R. Lane, chairman of the mathematics department, attended the annual American Mathematical Society — Mathematical Association of America meeting in Dallas, Texas, in late January. He was accompanied by Dr. E. C. Curtis and Dr. Amy P. King. Dr. Marijo O. LeVan published several articles in mathematical journals and Dr. Lane had the third of a collection of programmed guides published.

Geology, Geography Receive New Equipment

Dr. Donald C. Haney, chairman of the Department of Geology has continued to coordinate departmental expansion. With a grant provided by the National Science Foundation for the College Science Improvement Program facilities were expanded by the purchase of new equipment. This equipment included a new research microscope, Differential Thermal Analyzer and a Luminoscope for classroom and research use.

During spring break a group of ten students, led by Dr. Haney, visited the Grand Canyon and Mexico, two areas rich in geological formations.

The department also sponsored a guest speaker, Dr. Cornelius S. Hurlbut. This outstanding scientist from Boston College spent a week on Eastern's campus holding seminars and giving lectures for those interested in Geology.

The geography department, under the chairmanship of Dr. Joseph R. Schwendeman has shown progress by strengthening its undergraduate planning program. This program includes comprehensive study in urban, state, regional and environmental planning.

The department was able to expand its facilities with aquisition of additional meterological equipment for classroom and research use.

With funds provided by the Office of Economic Opportunity, the geography department was able to continue participation in a four county project.

Theatre Opens; English Adds Course

The Speech and Drama Department, under the direction of Dr. Richard L. Benson, was expanded to include courses in stage mechanics and stage lighting. In 1972, the Pearl Buchanan Theatre was renovated along with the rest of the Keen Johnson Building. The theater, now completed, opened with Ray Bradbury's play "Dandelion Wine."

The English Department during the '72-'73 academic year presented a new course, "Topics in English," that consisted of topics such as women in literature, and black literature.

The faculty members of the department had an active year with most occupied producing and publishing various papers and articles in journals. Dr. Kelly Thurman, chairman of the English Department, accompanied Mr. Charles M. Latta to the SAMLA Convention.

Art Department Rewards Students

Mr. Dan N. Shindelbower, chairman of the Art Department, enhanced the Bachelor of Fine Arts Degree program by recognizing graduating seniors with fine art awards. The awards were given to outstanding seniors in the areas of: art education, art history, painting, sculpture, and an overall award to the outstanding art student.

The art gallery, directed by Mr. Ron Isaacs brought in a variety of art shows for the use and study of "real art." The exhibitions included subjects on painting, functional ceramics, graphic art, and printmaking.

Students use creative imaginations to develop their artistic ideas in sculpturing and painting.

Physics Department Receives Grants

Dr. Ted George, chairman of the physics department, helped the department to another COSIP (College Science Improvement Program) grant. This grant was used to develop the computerized lab and to expand nuclear lab research.

The National Science Foundation awarded a $3,800 grant for the purchase of scientific equipment to improve undergraduate instruction. This grant helped to improve the quality of undergraduate science instruction by updating curricula and laboratories. The nuclear lab received new facilities which included a multichannel analyzer with solid state detectors which were cooled by a process using liquid nitrogen. These new facilities provided the department with specific equipment to improve previous courses and to allow for new undergraduate courses.

Departments Bring Lecturers

Dr. Richard F. Armstrong, chairman of the Department of Anthropology and Sociology, developed the curricula by adding two new courses to provide a greater understanding of the social world. The social work program expanded extensively to allow for six social work traineeships.

An Associate Professor of Sociology, Dr. Amiya K. Mohanty, lectured at Rust College, Holly Springs, Mississippi, on "Social Values in an Age of Technology."

Sociology and social work field studies were opened to the majors for experience in further studies. Anthropology also expanded to provide for an enrollment increase.

The Department of Philosophy, under the leadership of Dr. R. Baine Harris, sponsored Eastern's first International Philosophy Conference held May 17-19. A grant from the Franklin Machette Foundation of New York provided funds for a series of philosophy lectures throughout the year.

Expansion in the World Religions and Bible areas included an additional set of maps to enhance the curriculum. Dr. George Nordgulen, professor of religion and campus chaplain, published a paper in The New Scholasticism Journal.

Campbell Building to House Fine Arts

Expansion in all areas of the music department was experienced under the guidance of Dr. George E. Muns, chairman of the department.

The music department was made known to concert-goers throughout the region for the public performances presented by faculty, students and visiting artists.

Upon completion of the Jane Campbell Building the music department will have greatly expanded facilities. This new structure will contain 22 practice rooms and several performance areas.

To keep pace with growth in both enrollment and facilities, curriculum was also enlarged. In the planning stage is a new option to offer a Bachelor's Degree in Music with emphasis on history and literature. Ideas for new course offerings in choral conducting and marching band methods were also introduced.

For graduate students, the department added the Master of Music, specialization in performance program. This and other graduate programs provided a core of courses designed to equip the professionals with an adeptness in their field.

Dr. Charles L. Nelson, chairman of the department of Foreign Languages, was elected president of the Mountain Interstate Foreign Language Conference. The conference was held at Furman University where Dr. Alan Bettler, Dr. U. D. Boyd, Dr. Maria Scorsone, and Dr. John Williams presented papers based on their respective languages.

"Germanic Notes," a literary publication, published an article entitled "Friedrich Durrenmatt und sein Drama Play Strindberg" written by Dr. Ursel Boyd. "Germanic Notes" was an international journal on German literature.

Curriculum change within the department consisted of the addition of a course entitled Introduction to Spanish-American Literature.

The music, foreign language, drama and art departments will have new facilities in the Jane F. Campbell Building.

History, Political Science Professors Publish Books

With leadership provided by Dr. J. M. Moore the political science department has continued to increase its enrollment, recording in two years a 40 percent jump.

Dr. Moore also contributed to the book, "Dilemmas of Political Participation: Issues for Thought and Simulations for Action," published by Prentice-Hall. Simulations designed by Dr. Moore and a fellow contributor were tested in their classrooms and then included in the new book.

Four students went to New York City to participate in a mock United Nations meeting. The students from Eastern took part in this meeting as the delegation from Thailand.

Headed by Dr. G. W. Robinson, the Department of History had an enrollment of about 200 students. Curriculum changes included the abandonment of a required minor with a history major and the Social Science Area program.

A book by Dr. Lloyd J. Graybar, associate professor of history, was accepted for publication by the University Press of Kentucky. Other faculty members attended the Southern Historical Association, American Historical Association, and the Organization of American Historians conferences. The Kerney Adams History Award and awards to outstanding seniors were announced in March.

College of Business Adds Banking Degree

Efforts to prepare students for careers in a wider variety of business areas were extended by the College of Business through the implementation of a two-year Associate of Arts degree program in banking. This program, inaugurated during the spring semester, joined academic areas such as accounting, economics, electronic data processing, finance, management, marketing, secretarial science, and general business. Dr. Joseph Young, dean of the College, also chaired the Department of Business Administration.

The Department of Accounting, chaired by Mr. Claude K. Smith, provided a professional program designed to prepare students for work in business or leading to the CPA certification and an industrial accounting program for careers in government and industry.

Faculty Members Attend Business Meets

The Department of Business Education and Office Administration, headed by Dr. Alfred L. Patrick, offered courses toward secondary level teaching certification and prepared students for managerial professions. The faculty attended the Southern Business Education Association and National Business Association conferences to learn current trends in business education.

The executive secretarial program, leading to an Associate of Arts degree, reported a significant increase in enrollment for the fall semester.

New Faculty, Computer Boost Business

The College of Business added six new faculty members to help meet the annual increase in the number of business majors. The new instructors primarily strengthened the program in business law and the new banking curricula.

A new computer system was installed in the University's data processing center in March, and business majors benefited from exposure to the expanded capabilities of the new system.

College of Education Adds Summer Workshops

Three adult education courses and a graduate course in social studies education were added to the curricula of the College of Education. Dr. Dixon A. Barr, dean of the college, instituted new summer workshops in Career Education, Open Education, Environmental Art, and Math Education. A graduate curriculum with emphasis in early childhood education was adopted.

New equipment was received for the secondary reading program and the Science Education Center was opened in the Memorial Science Building. This center provided classrooms and office space for the instruction of teaching methods in science for elementary education majors.

A two-day conference on modern methods for teaching social studies was held in April. The conference was funded by a grant which was received by the college. A national consultant attended and participated in the conference.

The faculty participated in conferences related to student teaching, secondary education, and curriculum development. Recognized experts in reading and early childhood education, and public school personnel were brought to campus for lectures to secondary student teachers.

Library Science Adds Sparetime Classes

The Department of Library Science, guided by Chairman Juanita Phillips, continued to develop and augment its existing curriculum. In preparing school librarians and a foundation for graduate study in librarianship, the department offered courses ranging from children's literature, reference and cataloguing, to instructional media, and non-book materials. With sweeping changes in education, special emphasis was given to the various audiovisual media courses, as evidenced by the number of certified teachers enrolled in these night classes. A special sparetime class, "Storytelling and Children's Literature," was offered by the department as a service to the community to meet the special interests of Richmond adults.

This year a club for Library Science majors and minors, Lambda Sigma Omicron, was formed on campus.

Teachers Are Prepared in Numerous Areas

With a slight increase in enrollment, Dr. Henry G. Martin's Department of Educational Administration added a cassette tape recorder and a rotofile to update its present equipment. The department initiated EAD 640 — The Superintendency — for the fall semester, in addition to course work for the graduate student as an elementary and secondary principal, or a school business administrator.

Elementary education majors learn ideas for unique bulletin board and door decorations.

The Department of Educational Foundations provided instruction in professional subjects which were basic to teacher education, regardless of teaching specialty or level of school practice. Dr. William A. McKenney, chairman of the department, directed a summer workshop entitled the "Philosophy of Education," which examined contrasting conceptions of education; as well as the meaning of education in relation to the individual. Also offered as summer workshops were "Techniques of Studying Children" and "Critical Thinking" which included case studies, controlled observations, self reports, and standardized testing.

Dr. Robert Hayes, head of the Department of Educational Psychology and Guidance, reported two major curriculum additions — courses in vocational development and adjustment, and statistical methods. Headquarters for the department were expanded to include a new reception area, offices, and individual counseling rooms. The department offered graduate programs of specialization for students who plan to become school counselors, non-school counselors, and student personnel workers in higher education.

Elementary education, one of the largest departments on campus offered both methods and fundamentals courses to prepare the majors for their student teaching experiences. According to Dr. William A. Morris, some noteworthy events of the department occurred during the summer session. Seven workshops were held on campus and the topics included: teaching in the non-graded school, linguistics in elementary education, teaching the rural disadvantaged child, art workshop for elementary teachers, improvement of language arts and instruction, the reading institute, and a workshop for nursery and kindergarten teachers.

Secondary and higher education majors directed by chairman, Dr. Joe Wise, were offered courses in all areas of majors. Students were required to teach at an approved school for their graduation requirements.

Crusade Funds Provide Grants

For many years public schools concerned themselves only with those students who had the ability to cope with many general programs. Students in need of special education were socially passed each year to eventually become sources of embarrassment for the schools, or tolerated into boredom as a result of a curriculum or teacher that could not challenge their potential genius.

This changed for Eastern with the opening of new facilities in the Wallace Building for the Department of Special Education. The latest equipment was installed for the students' use including two soundproof suites for audiometric testing, several multi-purpose rooms for experimental classes, faculty offices, and other related facilities. A self-contained classroom for severely retarded children was constructed just like a public school classroom. The children who attended classes here were not accepted in the area public schools.

The department received an $18,000 WHAS Crusade for Children Grant which financed graduate scholarships.

HPERA Expands Programs, Facilitie

The School of Health, Physical Education, Recreation, and Athletics included the departments of School and Public Health, Recreation and Park Administration, Physical Education for Women, and Physical Education for Men. The school enjoyed an eventful year with improvement and expansion in many respects including faculty, programs, and facilities.

The Thomas E. McDonough Intramural fields were dedicated enhancing the growth and development of intramurals. A small fieldhouse, th Presnell Building, included dressing rooms fc football practice, a training room, and servic facilities for the intramural fields. The track infiel was scheduled for completion prior to the fall c 1973.

The KAPHER convention was held on campu in early December. A variety of clinics, work shops, films, lectures, and exhibits were pres ented to those attending the annual convention.

Programs, Facilities Enhance Departments

The Department of Recreation and Park Administration enhanced its capabilities with the addition of the Arlington outdoor education-recreation facility which added to the outdoor education and camping programs. Independent study and numerous workshops enhanced the curriculum. Dr. James C. McChesney, chairman of the department, attended the Southern District Recreation-Park Conference in Mobile, Alabama, and the National Recreation and Park Congress in Houston, Texas.

Recent developments in teacher preparation within the Department of Physical Education for Men included an endorsement program in both elementary physical education and athletic coaching. Another program instituted this fall was athletic trainer certification.

The department through its men's intramural program supervised and directed both sports and recreational activities for Eastern students. In addition to the intramural program, both male and female students enjoyed the men's facilities for recreational play.

Department Receives Grant for Sanitatio

Under the chairmanship of Dr. Herman Bush, the Department of School and Public Health continued to assist in preparing persons for positions in the rapidly expanding health professions. Greatest student growth was noted in the public health programs with emphasis in community health education or environmental sanitation.

The department received an Allied Health Professions Special Improvement Grant of $41,380 for a five year period to examine and improve the Environmental Sanitation Program. Consultants were brought to campus from Indiana University and the Center for Disease Control in Atlanta The faculty has been studying the community health education program with a view to giving students more options in interdepartmenta courses that would be supportive of department offerings.

Faculty members who have a major interest in school health were active in constructing a K-6 Health Curriculum Guide for the Commonwealth of Kentucky. The scheduled date for introduction into the public schools was set for the fall of 1973.

Weaver Building Is Renovated

Among the changes in the curricula of the Department of Physical Education for Women were the addition of an elementary physical education minor for elementary education majors, elementary physical education endorsement for P.E. majors, coaching certification for women, and a course entitled History of Dance. Renovation of the south wing of the Weaver Building was completed under the guidance of Dr. Ann Uhlir, department chairman. A new training room, locker room, and fitness room were included in the renovation.

An aquatic program, "Fun-o-rama," was instituted for the mentally retarded children of Madison County. The children had the use of the swimming pool on Saturdays.

Grad Enrollment Ranks Third in Kentucky

The Graduate School, under the direction of Dean Elmo E. Moretz, enrolled 1,586 students during fall registration. In so doing, Eastern's Graduate School became the third largest in Kentucky in terms of student enrollment, an achievement in the making since 1966, when the first non-education graduate degrees were offered.

New degree programs initiated during the academic year were the Master of Music and the Master of Arts in sociology. The criminal justice program continued to receive national recognition through the award of Education Professions Development Act graduate fellowships. Programs in clinical and school psychology and in public administration continued to receive attention because of the significant opportunities open to graduates in these fields.

The University, in its search for balance and diversity in graduate programs, offered increased areas of specialization for master's degree candidates, more viable sixth year certification programs, and opportunities for advanced graduate study in a variety of fields leading to the specialist degree.

THE 50TH MILESTONE

HONORS

Hall of Fame Entry Is Mary Beth Hannah

The 1973 entry to the Hall of Fame is Miss Mary Beth Hannah. Nominated by the College of Arts and Sciences, she has maintained a 3.93 academic standing with a double major of Latin and English.

Eastern's 12th Hall of Famer is a member of Sigma Tau Delta and Phi Kappa Phi. Chosen by the American Classical League to organize a chapter of the national organization at Eastern, she has served the club as president in its two years of existence on campus.

The Hall of Fame award each year honors a student who has accomplished the highest degree of scholarship, leadership, and service to the University.

Nominations were received from the deans of the academic colleges, Student Association, Collegiate Pentacle and Omicron Alpha Kappa. The final selection was made by a secret committee appointed by President Martin.

Honor Roll Names Outstanding Seniors

The 1973 Honor Rollees obtained an average grade point standing of 3.83. This year's list was headed by Mary Beth Hannah, a Latin and English major, with a 3.93 GPA. Kerry Courtney, a marketing major, had a 3.86 and Kelley Stanfield, a physical education major, had a 3.81: Mark Williams is an industrial education major with a 3.72 GPA.

The Honor Rollees have held major offices in campus organizations and were active in extra-curricular activities.

The Honor Roll recognizes students both for their academic accomplishments and extra-curricular activities. Nominations were received from each of the four academic college deans on the basis of the students' grade standing and leadership ability.

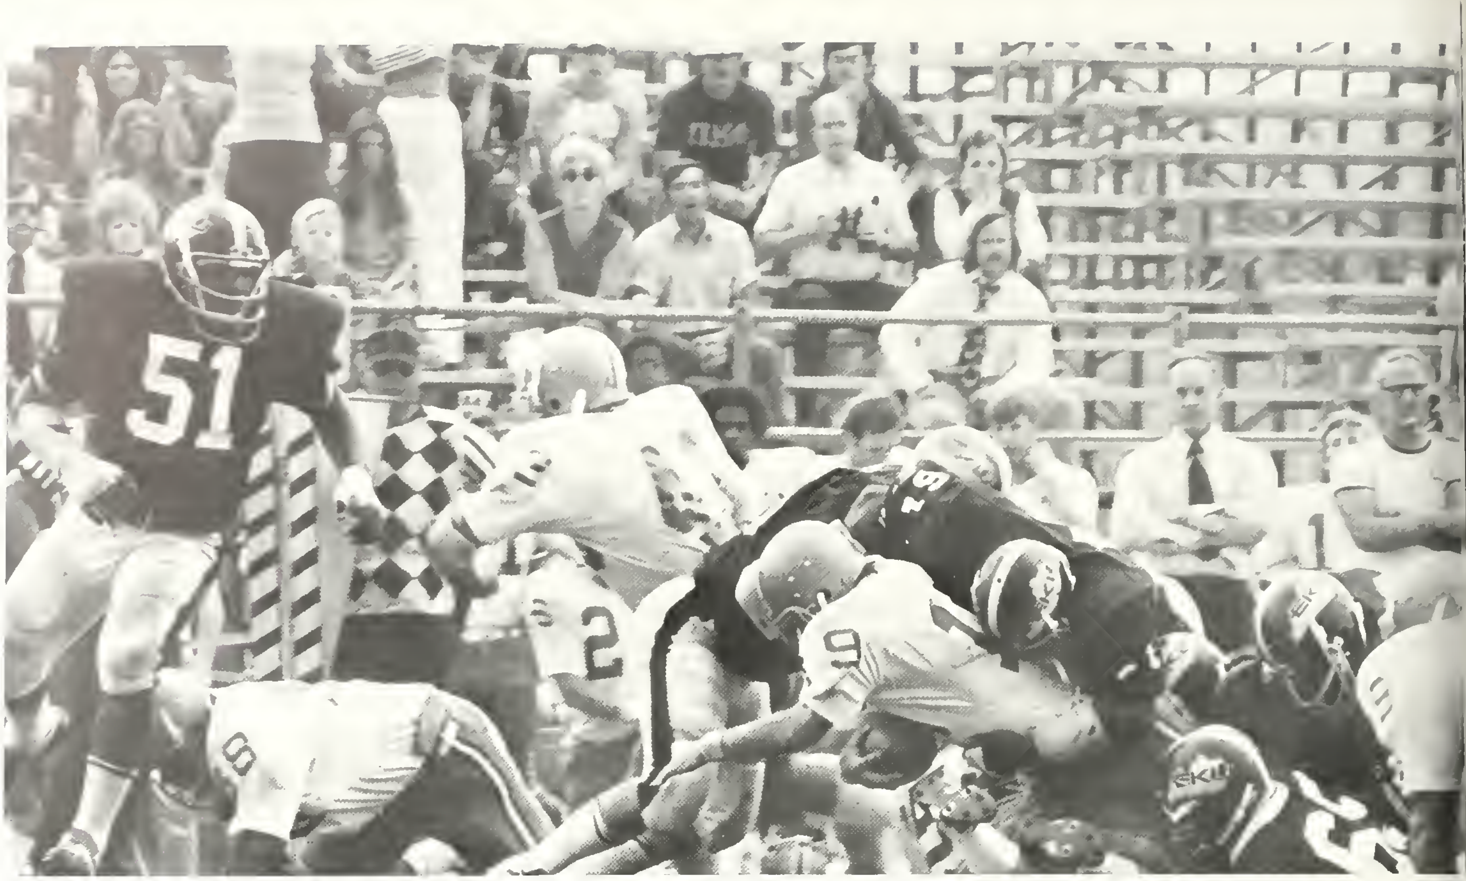
THE 50TH MILESTONE

ATHLETICS



Inexperienced Squad Hampered by Injuries

After losing 17 lettermen from last season, continuous injuries hampered the rebuilding of an inexperienced Eastern squad. But, the Colonels started the season with a great working attitude winning four of the first five games.

On the road for the opening game at Southeastern Louisiana, the EKU gridders battled both the humidity and the Lions to win a 10-0 victory. Jeff McCarthy, sophomore quarterback scored the game's only touchdown, and James DeFranco was credited with a field goal.

Eastern faced the nation's second-best winning percentage team over the past ten years when it played Indiana of Pennsylvania in the first home game of the season. Colonels defeated the Indians handily by a score of 34-7.

Injuries had begun to take their toll as Eastern played East Tennessee in its first OVC game of the year. Defensive end, Vic Smith, broke his leg attempting to block on a Colonel punt return, while three EKU starters were already benched with previous injuries. East Tennessee seemed to come up with the big play and handed Eastern a 28-12 loss.

Colonels Derail Middle, Fall at Central Michigan

Taking advantage of four Austin Peay fumbles, two pass interceptions, and a blocked return, EKU defeated the Governors by a score of 21-6 at Clarksville. Larry Kirksey, senior split end from Harlan, equalled his last season's pass reception total when he caught five passes against the Governors for 70 yards.

Previously undefeated Middle Tennessee came to Richmond the following week to confront the Colonels. Wally Chambers, EKU's senior All-American, was at full strength against the Raiders leading the Colonels to a 13-0 victory.

Although Alfred Thompson, a junior tailback from Owensboro, collected 125 yards in 31 carries and scored two touchdowns, Central Michigan edged by the visiting Colonels with a score of 21-14.

Colonels Drop Three, Including Two in OVC

The tension was monumental in the annual clash between Eastern and Western. The Hilltoppers, however, kept its lead in the rivalry by defeating the Colonels 10-0 at Bowling Green.

Twelve front-line players were on the injured list for the Homecoming contest against Murray State. Minus the offensive punch of Thompson and Kirksey, EKU found it tough to get something started offensively and fell to the Racers 7-3 in suffering its third straight loss.

The next adversary for the Colonels was league-leading Tennessee Tech. After yielding two first-quarter touchdowns, Eastern permitted Tech only four first downs in the second half and forced three fumbles. Tech, however, continued its OVC domination by winning 14-0.

Appalachian State gave Eastern its greatest loss since 1931. The Colonels just couldn't stop the strong Mountaineer offense, losing by a margin of 55-7.

EKU Whips Eagles in Convincing Style

The last game of the season was one of mixed emotions. After the tragic plane crash involving ten prominent Richmond men, eight of whom were former Eastern students, a note of sadness covered the campus. Before the game, activities were quieted in a moment of silence to the victims.

The age-old rivalry between Eastern and Morehead continued, however, and the enthusiastic crowd, filled with the anticipation of receiving an extra vacation day, was prepared to give the Colonels all the support they needed to win. The team and coaches were psyched, too, and the final score ended a five-game losing streak as EKU defeated Morehead 28-6.

Three Eastern players, defensive lineman Wally Chambers, tapped as the Most Valuable Player, defensive back James Croudep, and offensive back Larry Kirksey were named to the All-Ohio Valley Conference team, as they ended their careers for the Colonels.

Tough Schedule Faces Defending Champs

After representing Ohio Valley Conference in the 1972 NCAA tournament, Eastern's basketball Colonels had a difficult act to follow. One of the toughest schedules in recent years faced the Colonels as the season began.

Centre College posed the first victims in the season opener in Alumni Coliseum, and was handily defeated by the Colonels, 84-60. Eastern traveled to Kansas State for its second game of the year and fell 87-59 at the hands of the Big Eight champions.

Louisville's Freedom Hall held the action when Eastern met its 1972 NCAA opponent, Florida State. Hopes of gaining revenge for the two-point loss last season were destroyed as the Seminoles won 87-70.

Eastern played its next two games before the home crowd. Carl Brown, a 6-4, 200 pound, freshman guard from Cincinnati, came off the bench to spark the Colonels in a 96-86 win over Virginia Commonwealth. Brown also proved an asset in the 90-85 home victory over Morehead.

With Mitchell Sidelined, Title Hopes Fade

On the road again, Eastern reversed its previous victory by losing to Virginia Commonwealth 69-66. In the Oral Roberts Classic, Eastern lost to Montana State 84-92, but scored a season high for single game points against St. Mary's of California in a 114-95 conquest.

Rolling into Dayton on January 3, Eastern slipped by the Flyers 74-70. Playing their fourth road game in ten days, the Colonels began to show the effects of travel as they lost to Marshall 83-72.

Second semester began with two disappointing OVC losses. Charlie Mitchell, deemed as Eastern's most valuable player, was sidelined with the flu when Murray and Austin Peay came to town. After losing to Murray 75-70, Eastern fought hard against Austin Peay, but the Governors edged by the Colonels 88-87 in an overtime.

The long-standing rivalry between Eastern and Western was continued the following week on television during the OVC game-of-the-week. EKU began a four-game winning streak as they became the first Colonel team in five years to defeat Western on its home court.

Five in Two Figures, But Colonels Falter

All five of Eastern's starters continued double-figure averages as the Colonels beat Middle Tennessee 80-77. EKU's next triumphs were on the home court with a 66-61 win over East Tennessee, and a 77-66 victory over Tennessee Tech.

Two of the nation's top independent teams invaded Eastern the following weekend. Powerful Marshall University repeated an earlier win over EKU as it handed the Colonels a 100-76 loss. Senior center, Dan Argabright, Eastern's leading rebounder, collected 21 against Virginia Tech to aid the Colonels 81-72 victory.

Eastern failed to avenge two previous OVC losses when the Colonels once again confronted league-leading Austin Peay and runner-up Murray State. Charlie Mitchell, the number two scorer in Eastern history, connected for 43 and 31 points, respectively, but the Colonels fell 96-88 to Austin Peay and 83-79 to Murray.

Colonels Win on TV But Lose on Road

Regional television came to Alumni Coliseum for coverage of the Middle Tennessee game. Dominating the backboards, EKU swept past the Blue Raiders 74-58. Tension was high during the last home game of the year as Western came to Richmond for the annual clash with the Colonels. The Hilltoppers avenged a defeat it suffered earlier from Eastern, winning 77-71.

Marked with ups and downs throughout the year, Eastern ended its season on the road. Stamina seemed lacking as the Colonels lost to Tennessee Tech 104-76. After bouncing back with a 77-72 win over East Tennessee, the Colonels ended season play at Morehead, losing 92-84.

Freshman Colonels Post 16-2 Record

The Eastern Kentucky University freshman team completed its schedule with a 15-2 won-lost record, losing only to the University of Louisville freshmen and the Tennessee Tech junior varsity.

Each of the scholarship freshmen finished the season scoring in double figures. Jim Segar, a 6-3 guard from Richmond who was forced to miss the final three games of the season with a broken foot, led the frosh in scoring with his 21.4 average, and hit 85 per cent of his free throws.

Bill Gaines, a 6-9 center from Paris, topped Colonel rebounders with a 13.6 average. David Rout, a 6-6 forward from Cincinnati, averaged 13.0 points and 13.5 rebounds per contest.

Dennis Barbour, a 6-0 guard from Mason County, led the freshmen in assists with 80, and also averaged 16.0 points per game. Mark Bugg, a 6-5 forward, topped EKU in field goal percentage, hitting 57 per cent of his shots.

Finishing the season undefeated on the home court, Eastern averaged 89.8 points per game, as compared to its opponent's 74.3 mark.

New head basketball coach Bob Mulcahy speaks to his EKU team shortly after succeeding Guy Strong as the Colonel cage mentor.

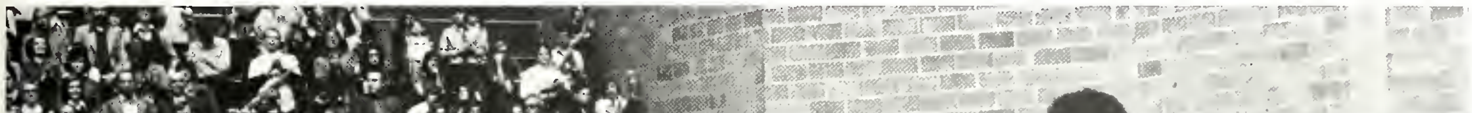
Chambers Reaps Honors; Mulcahy New Net Coach

A pair of Eastern All-Americas came to national attention early in the spring semester when accolades began to pour in for Wally Chambers, Eastern's 6-5, 250-pound defensive tackle, and when Bob Mulcahy, former high school and EKU basketball All-America was named as head basketball coach.

Chambers, who was also a first-team All-OVC choice, became Eastern's first big-time All-American football player when he was named to TIME Magazine's and The Sporting News' All-American team first units. But, perhaps the biggest news came when Chambers, who played in two post-season all-star games, became the first ever first round NFL draft choice from an OVC school. He was the first pick of the Chicago Bears and the eighth player selected in the draft. Big Wally's number 78 was officially retired in ceremonies before the Eastern-Western basketball game.

Mulcahy, who starred at Lexington Layfayette High School and was a member of an OVC championship squad at Eastern, began his successful coaching career at Seneca High School in Louisville. He won 124 games and lost 15 there in six seasons and took consecutive Kentucky state championships in 1963 and 1964.

He began his collegiate coaching as an assistant at the University of Kansas and posted the highest winning percentage ever at the University of South Dakota where he coached for six seasons.



President Robert R. Martin holds up Wally Chambers' Number 78 jersey as Big Wally's number is officially retired. Richmond Mayor Wallace Maffett, Chambers and Coach Roy Kidd look on.

The EKU cross-country team, under the direction of first-year coach Art Harvey, took Eastern to a third-place finish in the Ohio Valley Conference this season. Dan Maloney set a new record time on the five-mile course at 24:53.

In the NCAA regional meet at Knoxville, Eastern finished eighth out of 44 participating teams. As a result of that meet, two of the runners, Dan Maloney and Tom Findley, qualified for the National meet in Houston.

Eels Win Eleventh State Championship

Eastern's Eels continued their dominance of state swimming by racking up their eleventh straight Kentucky Intercollegiate Swimming Championship. EKU retained 14 of the 16 KISC records and broke eight previous Eel marks.

In posting a 9-2 dual meet record, Eastern took victories over Indiana State University; a tough University of Cincinnati squad; Ohio University, perennial Mid-American power; and Southeastern Conference representatives, Vanderbilt University and the University of Kentucky.

Only the swimming teams from the University of Georgia and the University of Alabama proved too swift for the Eels and rendered EKU its only losses of the year.

Eels Set New Marks Against UK

Highlighting regular season competition for the Eels was a thrilling 57-56 victory over Kentucky. Two of Eastern's premiere swimmers, Wes Arnold and John Davenport, set new team records during that meet. Arnold, a sophomore from Kingsport, Tennessee, finished the 100-yard backstroke of the 400-yard medley in 0:54.3, and Davenport, a senior who made the NCAA university cut-off times, swam the 200-yard breaststroke in 2:13.0.

Speed and Defense Depict Baseball Season

Under the direction of first-year coach Jack Hissom, the EKU baseball team compiled a 29-12-3 record.

Eastern became the first OVC school to play a fall schedule, winning all seven autumn games. After the Colonels returned from a southern road trip, during which they played nationally ranked Jacksonville University, they won the next 21 of 24 games to make the season successful.

Utilizing speed and defense, the Colonels posted impressive statistics. Eastern runners stole 84 bases in 96 attempts to give EKU a high national ranking in this respect. The Colonels also took advantage of almost every situation in the field with an average of .957.

Three EKU players made the All-OVC team. Billy Wells, ranked as high as fifth in the nation at one time with total victories, ended the season with a 8-2-4 record, and an earned run average of 1.89. Ken Blewitt, a junior third baseman, had a batting average of .346, third highest in the OVC. Roger Roberts, Eastern's catcher, make the all-conference team for his third year.

Eastern played a tough schedule and, although there was no OVC champion, the Colonels came through with a 5-5 conference record. Losing its last three OVC games, however, killed Eastern's chance for an NCAA berth.

Several Records Set by EKU Thinclads

Eastern's thinclads ended the 1972 season with a record of five wins and one loss. The combined efforts of Tyrone Harbut, Tom Cahill, Keith Bertrand, and Mervyn Lewis on the mile relay team brought two first-place victories and established a new EKU record time of 3:18.5 in the indoor relay event.

Mervyn Lewis placed first in the 600-yard run at three meets setting a new EKU indoor record time of 1:10.8, and was second in the OVC championship 880-yard run. His efforts won him a spot on the all-conference track team.

Ron Seiter recorded the best pole vault in the state at fifteen feet during the '72 season, while Charlie Dawson of Danville posted a forty-nine-foot one-inch triple jump to break the standing EKU record. The 880-yard relay team, also set a new time for Eastern at 1:28.5.

Bruce Sims proved to be the number one player of the season. Valuable, too, were Pat Geron, versatile Al Ramirez, and John Young who scored the most individual points. Young Matmen Fill Open Positions

Eastern's Colonel's wrestling team encountered many injuries during the year, but managed to secure a winning season for second-year coach, Richard Achtzehn. A tougher schedule and the filling of some key positions was overcome and a final tally of nine wins and seven losses was recorded.

Highlighting the season, however, was an exciting match in which Eastern defeated Notre Dame by a score of 19-17.

Boasting the best winning percentages for the year were Bobby Roach, a 134-pounder with a record of 12-3-1, and lightweight Bill Froman, with a 9-3 season total. Although senior, Dick Lowenstine's career was hampered by an injury, his season's record was 6-2-1.

Throughout the year, Eastern resorted to its young bench when sickness and injury hit the squad. Among the contenders for open positions were sophomore, Stan Whittlesey, and freshmen, Steve Wallace, John Wood, and Steve Vespe.

Marksmen Improve Season Averages

Increased enthusiasm inaugurated the drive for Eastern's rifle team as it boosted its season average 100 points over last year's team. Glen Haberlin's consistency helped him maintain the highest individual average on the EKU squad.

Eastern marksmen, coached by Sergeant Casius Berdine, perform in two divisions — varsity and ROTC. Competing in eleven shoulder-to-shoulder matches, they finished the season with a 7-4 record.

At the National Rifle Association Intercollegiate Sectional Meet, Eastern finished second in the ROTC division and fourth in the varsity division. Mary Ellen Hume took top honors in the women's varsity division at the sectional meet with a score of 289 points.

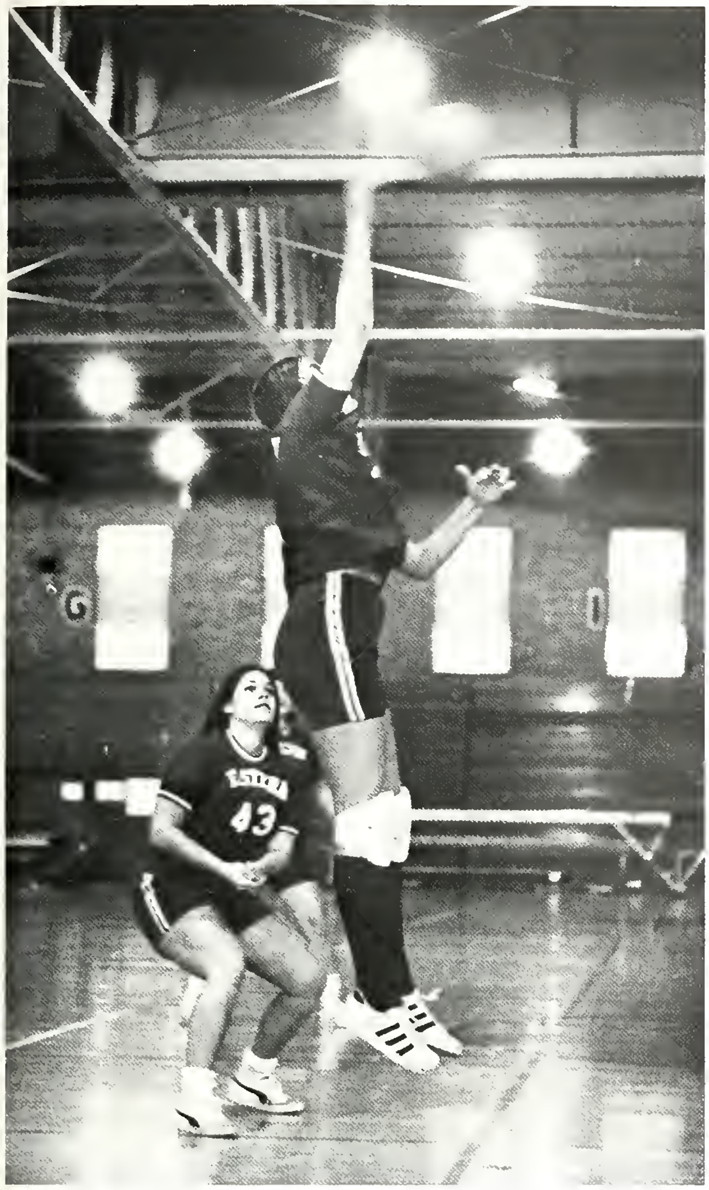
Coed Hockey Team Compiles 4-2 Record

Second-year women's field hockey team coach, Javene Young, noted that the team improved in ability over the previous year. EKU compiled a record of four wins and two losses during the 1972 season against such competition as Transylvania, Centre, University of Cincinnati, and the University of Kentucky.

Led by a vigorous defensive line, Eastern finished third in the finals of the Kentucky State Women's Hockey Tournament.

Right: Eastern's Cindy Pearce (44) shoots for a goal in a hard fought game against the University of Kentucky.



Volleyball Team Goes to National Tourney

Completing the season with a 20-4 record, the Eastern women's volleyball team won the state championship for the second consecutive year. Coached by Geri Polvino, the girls invaded Knoxville, Tennessee, for the five-state tournament where they tucked away their first regional crown.

Hard work and dedication, coupled with an opportunity to explore their potential, sparked the EKU girls in wins which led them to the tournament in Provo, Utah, where they won two of five games. Fifteen teams, representing nine regions, competed in the Association of Intercollegiate Athletics for Women volleyball finals at Brigham Young University.

The loss of only two seniors left Eastern with strength and experience to guide next year's team.

Eastern Girl Netters Have Winning Season

Eastern Kentucky University's women's tennis team had another winning season in 1972. Coached by Martha Mullins, the girl netters ended the season with a 5-3 won-lost record. Some of the powerful opposition confronted by EKU this year included Indiana University, University of Louisville, University of Kentucky, and Marshall University.

Patti Hochwalt in her last season at Eastern provided stamina in the number one position, and was backed by Kathy Eicher, a sophomore from Ft. Thomas, in the number two spot. The vitality of Kama Whittington, Vicki Jones, and Nancy Hundley made up the strength of Eastern's middle positions.

Women Basketballers Repeat as Champions

Patterned offense and strong defense were the keys that led Eastern's women's basketball team to another winning season. Playing against tough competition, EKU's only loss came at the hands of the University of Tennessee in a season that ended with an impressive 8-1 record.

Javene Young and Ellen Johns, first-year co-coaches of the squad, directed EKU's young team to its second straight Kentucky Intercollegiate Basketball Championship. By downing Murray 68-42 in the final game, Eastern advanced to the Southern Regional Tournament at Lexington.

The experience of seniors Debbie Hensley and Marsha Sterchi, plus the added height of freshmen, Bernadette Kok, Linda Ruf, and Lynne Morris made Eastern a winning combination.

Women's Intramurals Show 40 Percent Gain

A greater interest in women's intramurals was shown by a 40 percent increase over last year's participation. Eastern women eagerly took advantage of the more diverse program.

Since most of the teams were involved in more than one sport, a point system was devised to award trophies to the team and individual who had acquired the most points by the end of the season.

In its second year, flag football caused even more interest among women who were fascinated at the idea of playing a "man's" game. The Wally Donkers took the championship over a tough schedule of competition.

Included in the other fall sports were tennis, soccer and volleyball. Winning the volleyball tournament for the third year in a row were the Jolly Volleys who also claimed the soccer trophy this season.

Basketball Season Tops Winter Interests

After a three-week vacation, EKU women had plenty of energy reserved for the second semester opening of the intramural program. The most popular sport, as usual, was basketball. Teams representing dorms, sororities, and independents used the hardwood of Weaver Gym for their roundball contests.

As seasons changed, so did the calendar of activities for spring. The traditional sports of softball, table tennis, paddleball, and badminton were responsible for the athletic interests during most of the semester. An intriguing new event, that of kite flying, was also received with excitement and enthusiasm as the school term drew to a close.

All-Year Trophy Adds Intramural Spark

Participation in the men's intramural program continued to increase this year as competition in individual and team sports was exhibited with more energetic interest. Students turned toward athletic endeavors as an escape from the chores of schoolwork.

An all-year trophy point system was established which initiated team spirit and invited a determination to win. Fraternities, dorms, and independents sponsored teams who took part in the nearly two dozen activities offered.

Fall semester began with a tough schedule of contenders in flag football. The three divisional champions were: Greek, Phi Delta Theta; Housing, Mattox 4; and Independents, Stringbeans.

Activities Increase as Year Wears On

As the semester progressed, individual effort was concentrated on tennis, handball, and paddleball. Thoughts of claiming a personal victory provided the stamina needed for unique contests.

The fall program was completed when winners were determined in volleyball, tug-of-war, swimming, and cross country. Greek title holders included, respectively, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Chi, Delta Upsilon, and Theta Chi. Triumphant winners of the housing division were volleyball, Commonwealth 13; and tug-of-war, Palmer 6. Independent champions were volleyball, Grog; tug-of-war, Tribe; swimming, FOG, and cross country — Volunteers.

Second Semester Has Full Sports Schedule

Spring semester brought a full calendar of intramural events in which students could take an active part. Basketball was the dominant sport during the winter months with numerous teams in contention for the championship.

Wrestling, which consisted of six single elimination rounds, took its share of male involvement with entries in all weight classes.

With warm weather came soccer, golf, and track to round out the schedule in the intramural department. Softball, too, was greeted by interested teams and spectators who used the sport to take advantage of nice outside afternoons.

ORGANIZATIONS

Student Court Acts in Traffic Cases

Eastern's eleven-member student court provided a body which interpreted the Student Association constitution in its theory and practice and afforded students the opportunity to clearly and justly air grievances.

The bulk of court business is concerned with hearing appeals to campus traffic violations. This year's court set a precedence of leniency in light of Eastern's critical shortage of ample parking facilities.

Student Association Works for Orderly Change

Students of Eastern found that successful changes in University life can be brought about by active involvement in Student Government and through established processes. The purchase of bicycle racks and expanded women's self-regulated hours policy are among changes supported by the Student Senate that were approved by the Board of Regents. The Student Association continued active work in other areas of student concern, including the housing contracts and the open visitation policy.

The Student Senate also gave attention to other areas of student concern such as dormitory personality evaluations, CUC and graduation requirements, and the method of registering for academic classes. All resources available to Student Government were put to active use in another area that concerns student life in Richmond, the voter registration drive which encouraged students to vote in local elections. Information on drug abuse and pregnancy was provided by the Association.

The Student Senate also worked to end club representation in favor of a more representative method of electing student senators.

Baptist Student Union Adds New Facility

The Baptist Student Union purchased a mobile classroom building and connected it to the existing Center to provide added space for the BSU program. The money for this project was raised through the pledges and gifts of students, parents, alumni and other friends.

The BSU choir presented the folk musical Show Me Jesus seven times in churches across Kentucky during the fall semester.

Fifty-one students from Eastern attended the BSU State Convention at Bowling Green in October. The BSU entered a float in the Homecoming Parade and their candidate was among the fifteen finalists.

At Thanksgiving and Christmas the BSU sponsored a Can Cern Campaign to collect food for needy Richmond families.

The Baptist Student Union sponsored programs and speakers on Monday and Wednesday nights with study and dialogue groups on Tuesdays and choir practice on Thursdays. Socials and coffee houses were sponsored several weekends during the year.

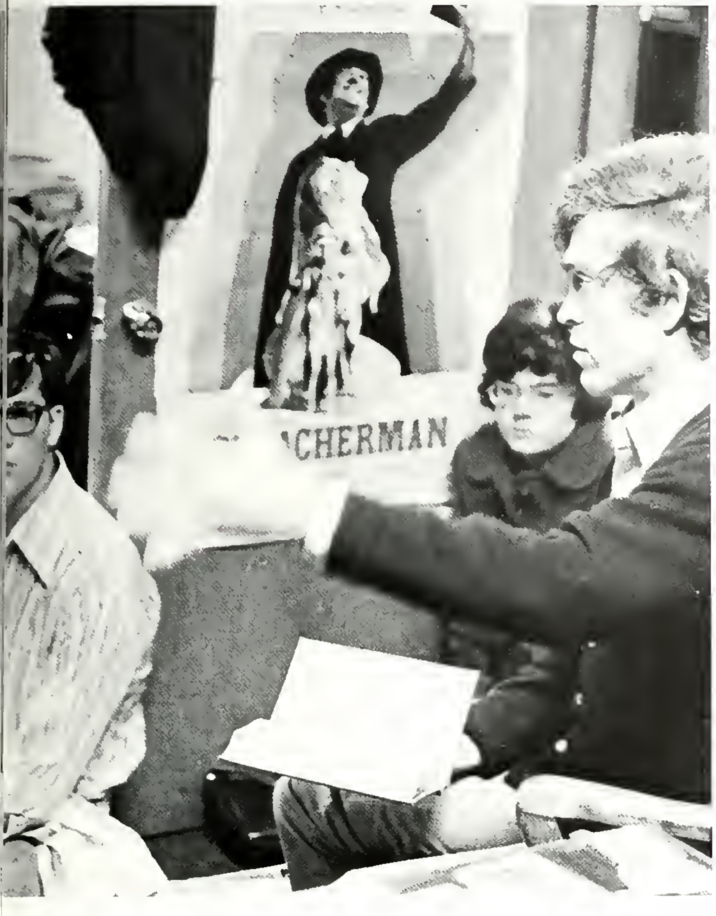
Weekend Activities Fill Wesley Calendar



The activities of the Wesley Foundation were divided into the regular weekly program and special activities. The regular program began with Sunday morning Rap Hour. Sunday night College Worship Hour, Monday night dinner and fellowship, and Wednesday night discussion programs completed the routine of the Center.

The Foundation members took part in three retreats during the year. They also held two "Helping Thru Caring Weekends" in which the members acted as Big Brothers and Sisters to orphans from the Methodist Home in Versailles.

During several Youth Engagement Weekends, students spent one weekend becoming an active part of a local church program. Another weekend took several students to Tupelo, Mississippi. Also sponsored by the Center were the Deputation Teams. These teams took charge of the morning worship service in area Methodist churches.

Once each month, the Foundation combined with the Catholic Newman Center for evenings of discussion and entertainment.

The year was climaxed by the annual Spring Banquet, May 1, with Bishop Frank Robertson of the United Methodist Church as the speaker.

ADPi's Take Major Events

Alpha Delta Pi participated in its annual drive for Muscular Dystrophy with Kappa Alpha Order and in the all-Greek candle sale for the mentally retarded. Also sponsored by ADPi's was an adopted Indian child in Mexico. Members helped the Jaycees in the Christmas "Toys-for-Tots" drive. ADPi's made Thanksgiving baskets for the needy families and held the annual Parent's Day in November.

The ADPi's won trophies in the KA's Old South Week, the Pike's Bowling Tournament and Goldfish Eating Contest, and the Sigma Chi Derby. They were second in the Omega Psi Phi's Peanut Butter-Eating Contest and placed third in the DU's Tricycle Race. The sisters also participated in the Theta Chi Volleyball Tournament, Sigma Chi's "Big Mac"-Eating Contest, and held their annual Nearly Wed Game and Washboard Band Contest in the spring.

Alpha Gam's Sponsor Pep Days

Alpha Gamma Delta members held their first Pep Day in support of the Colonels athletic teams in September, and throughout the year held Pep Days for each sport.

AGD sponsored activities to raise money for their altruistic project of helping those with Minimal Brain Dysfunction. The Alpha Gam's also acted as co-sponsors with Beta Omicron Gamma for the campus Cystic Fibrosis Fund Drive.

In the spring, AGD members sponsored girls' softball tournament.

They were presented the Dean of Women's Sorority Academic Bowl this fall for their attainment of the highest accumlated point standing among Eastern's sororities during the 1972 spring semester.

Alpha Kappa Alpha, the oldest black Greek-letter sorority, was chartered on Eastern's campus in April of 1971. Their motto, "Service to all Mankind" was exemplified through their community service projects including an arts and crafts project for the underprivileged children of the Richmond community.

The sisters also sponsored the third annual Miss Black Richmond Pageant, and an Hawaiian Luau from which the proceeds were given to their scholarship fund. The sisters took pride in winning first-place in the KDT's She-Male Contest and placing second in the talent show sponsored by the "Pearls" of Omega Psi Phi.

Kappa Alpha Theta Has Parents' Weekend

Kappa Alpha Theta won first-place in the float competition at the Sigma Chi Derby, in which a sister, Mary Stevens, was crowned queen. Kappa Alpha Theta also placed second in the DU Bike Race and members were also active in numerous other Greek activities.

In November, Kappa Alpha Theta hosted its annual Parents Weekend during which parents attended the football game with the sorority. The girls in Kappa Alpha Theta have led the Greeks with the highest academic average two of the past three semesters.

The Thetas held several parties for mentally retarded children and helped with the candle sale for the Mental Retardation Association sponsored by Richmond's Jaycees. The sorority continued its annual support for the National Institute of Logopedics, which deals with speech problems in children. In the spring the girls again aided the Jaycees on Honey Sunday.

Kappa Alpha Psi Institutes Kappa Week

The annual Hot Pants Dance highlighted the fall for Kappa Alpha Psi. The brothers also sponsored a Children's Picnic and worked in the New Liberty Convalescent Home. Further service projects included the candle sale for retarded children and a Thanksgiving dance in Lexington. The proceeds from this dance were donated to a needy Richmond family. The brothers were also active with Project Pal with Richmond area children.

Second semester was enlivened by the introduction of Kappa Week. During this week the brothers sought to promote their fraternity by exposing its many aspects to the University community. Another feature of Kappa Week was the Guide Right Program. The purpose of this program was to encourage Richmond area children to develop an interest in higher education. Kappa Week was climaxed by the Black and White Ball.

Pikes Publish Dream Girl Calendar

As one of the year's activities, Pi Kappa Alpha published their first Dream Girl Calendar. Also new this year was the first annual Pike's Peek Week.

The Pikes continued other annual events. Among them were the Goldfish-Eating Contest and the Pie-Eating Contest. As a service project they sponsored a Christmas party for underprivileged Richmond children. Among the social events of the year were the Dream Girl Ball, the Parents Banquet, and a Hells Angel's Party at Jenny Wiley State Park.

Service Spotlights Sigma Nu's Activities

Civic service projects highlighted Sigma Nu's year as the brothers participated in the drive to aid the underprivileged. The brothers held a Christmas party for deprived Richmond children, gathered canned food for Thanksgiving baskets, aided in the Richmond Jaycee's Honey Sunday, and participated in the IFC-Panhellenic candle sale with proceeds going to aid mentally retarded children.

Social events of the year included a Fabulous Fifties Party, White Rose Formal, Parent's Day, and get-togethers with other Sigma Nu chapters around the state. Other activities were the annual Powder Puff Football Game, an All-Greek Pocket Billiards tournament, and the bike ride to the Western game at Bowling Green carrying the game football to the coach.

Sigma Chi Collects in UNICEF Drive

The brothers of Sigma Chi began the year in a big way with the annual Sigma Chi Derby where Mary Stephens was crowned queen. Also during the fall semester, the Sigma Chi's were active in many service projects. They held a leaf-raking to raise funds for their national service project, Wallace Village. At Halloween the brothers collected money for UNICEF. They also participated in the candle sale for retarded children.

Sigma Chi won its sixth title as champions in the tug-of-war. The All-Sports Trophy was awarded to Sigma Chi for the fifth year. The second annual Warehouse Dance highlighted the second semester.

Teke's Present Free Movies

During Orientation, Halloween, Christmas, and Easter, the brothers of Tau Kappa Epsilon presented free movies to the student body. The Teke's held their third annual Amateur Photography Contest in December and sponsored the fourth annual academic Bowl with a $100 scholarship as the first prize.

For two money-making projects, the Teke's published their second "TEKE Guide To Freshmen Women" and made candles and sold them at Christmas. Among their sports activities, the brothers sponsored a fraternity basketball tournament.

As one of the Teke's service projects, they brought handicapped children to several Eastern games.

Phi Mu Joins Eastern's Greeks

In October, Phi Mu Phi, Eastern's colony of Phi Mu national sorority received official recognition as a campus organization. Immediately, the Phi Mu's became active participants in campus and community affairs. They won the Best Booth and Spirit trophies at BOG County Fair. The sisters participated in the Theta Chi Volleyball Tournament, TKE Basketball Tournament, Pike Goldfish Eating Contest and other Greek activities. Phi Mu initiated the Sadie Hawkins Day Chase.

In the area of service, the Phi Mu's were also active. They participated in the Candle Sale on behalf of the mentally retarded and held a drive to raise money for HOPE, the national Phi Mu philanthropy. Phi Mu also sponsored a Jesse James Kidnap for the Jaycees Toys-for-Tots Drive.

Chi Omega Hosts Faculty Tea

The sisters of Chi Omega experienced a busy and enlightening year, placing second in spirit in the Sigma Chi Derby, second in BOG County Fair, and second in the Beta Theta Pi Football Tournament. Chi Omega placed first in the Theta Chi Volleyball Tournament, Omega Psi Phi's Peanut Butter Eating Contest and won the Beauty Award for their Homecoming float. The high light of the fall semester was the first annual Faculty Tea. Each sorority member invited her favorite professor for punch and "brownies." Chi O's also sponsored their fourth annual Happy Dan and their yearly swim meet.

The Chi O's assisted in the community effort to collect Toys-for-Tots at Christmas and had tremendous success in the Greek Candle Sale for retarded children.

Omega's Hold Essay Contest

The Omega's worked throughout the year to fulfill their purpose of racial uplift through cultural achievement and inspiration. Among their service activities was the Sickle-cell Anemia Donation Drive. Another service project of the fraternity was the "National Achievement Essay Writing Contest" in which they awarded a scholarship to a Madison County High School student.

The Omega's still found time for play, however. They sponsored a Peanut-Butter Eating Contest for the other fraternities and sororities. They also held their annual Homecoming Dance and the annual spring Black Collegiate Ball.

Interfraternity Council Expands Efforts

The Interfraternity Council expanded its efforts to improve cooperation and communication between Eastern's fraternities by sponsoring a series of workshops and seminars involving officers concerned with various aspects of fraternity management and discussing problems and arriving at possible solutions through group interaction. The IFC sponsored its second All-Greek Service Project with the candle sale November 22. An academic trophy was presented each semester to the fraternity with the highest composite grade point average, as well as an individual $50 scholarship. Other projects included a free street dance during fall registration week, joint efforts to increase fraternity membership, and assistance in the "Hanging of the Greens" program. IFC coordinated all fraternity activities and sought to gain progress of the fraternity system on campus through varied programs uniting existing members and attracting independents.

Panhellenic Council Sponsors State Day

In late September, Panhellenic sponsored Panhellenic State Day, where members from around the state met for conferences on Greek affairs. Working along with IFC, Panhellenic co-sponsored a freshman dance and aided in the All-Greek Candle Sale. Other activities included sponsoring the Miss Eastern Pageant, publishing "Pan Scan," a Panhellenic magazine, and holding their annual Panhellenic Dinner.

K-Mates Give Party for Kids

K-Mates was a new service organization on campus this year. They started off with a note card sale to raise money. In October, in association with the Child Welfare Board, K-Mates gave a Halloween party for the underprivileged children. The close of the first semester brought a candy sale to raise money for other projects.

The beginning of the second semester was marked by the membership drive. In the middle of February the group decided to merge K-Mates with Circle K. Together the new group visited Shriner's Hospital and presented an Easter Egg Hunt in Richmond.

Circle K Bikes to Austin Peay Football Game

Circle K reported another successful year in '72-'73. The fall activities began when the members worked as orientation guides during the first week of the semester. The group had a bike ride to Austin Peay State University for the benefit of Multiple Sclerosis in late September. They were once again in charge of the warehouse for building floats during Homecoming Week. They also had their annual Peanut Day at Homecoming. The semester was capped with a three-week fund-raising drive for Christmas Seals.

The spring semester saw the merger of the K-Mates into Circle K. The group had a party for the children at Shriner's Hospital in Lexington, visited their foster child in Eastern Kentucky, did clean-up work at the city park at Lake Reba, and they held their annual Easter Egg Hunt for the children of Madison County.

Men's Interdormitory Council drew the various dormitory councils together as a central governing body. The Council strove to improve living conditions and study habits within the residence halls. Through support of the highest standards of conduct among all men, the Council encouraged their further academic and social achievement.

The Men's Interdorm Council met monthly with the administrators dealing with the men's dorms. These meetings were for two-way communication between the students and the administration. At these meetings, the members of the Interdorm Council stressed physical improvements in the men's dorms. Throughout the year they also worked to see that each residence hall took full advantages of the recreation programs.

Below: Steve Hurley, president of Men's Inter-dormitory Council discusses plans for the improvement with Dean James Allen.

Women's Interdorm Works for Unity

The Women's Interdorm Council was composed of elected representatives and house council presidents from each dormitory. The group acted as a liaison between the administration and the women residents.

Recreational equipment was installed in each of the women's dorms. Through the Council's efforts, self-regulated hours were adopted on a permanent basis. The acquisition of refrigerators in the dorm rooms and later operating hours for the Student Center Grill were partly due to the efforts of Women's Interdorm.

The major functions of Women's Interdorm were as a medium of self-government for women dormitory residents and as a unifying factor in campus relations.

Direction Eastern Welcomes Freshmen

Freshmen were welcomed to the University by Direction Eastern, as members of the club manned an information booth and offered guided tours for the incoming freshmen and their parents.

Direction Eastern lent a hand at pep rallies, Band Day, and Homecoming activities. The members publicized the football pep rallies, acted as guides for Band Day, and prepared the signs for the cars in the Homecoming Parade.

Thanksgiving was made more meaningful to Direction Eastern by the purchase of groceries for a needy family by the members.

The EKU Timettes, a new organization responsible for timing the Eels at swim meets, were put on their feet by a loan from Direction Eastern.

Throughout the year, members of Direction Eastern provided guided tours for visitors to the Eastern campus.

Little Colonels Sport New Uniforms

New uniforms brought a new look to the Little Colonels Drill Team. The Little Colonels performed along with the Marching Maroons at football games against Indiana University of Pennsylvania and Morehead.

The drill team performed at four basketball games including the Florida State game in Louisville and home games against Virginia Commonwealth, Morehead, and Virginia Tech. The girls marched to the music of "Puppet Man," "Ina Goda Davida," "Here Comes Santa Claus," "Make Me Smile" and of course "Hail, Hail Eastern Maroons."

Little Colonels rode 144 miles in the Beta Theta Pi Bike-a-Thon for Mental Retardation. They also marched on Band Day. During the fall semester, the Little Colonels sold "Truck On, EKU" license plates to raise money.

Veterans Club Sell POW, MIA Bracelets

In October and November, the Veterans Club sold over 500 bracelets honoring American POW's and MIA's. The money from this project was used to write letters and to lobby for the release of American prisoners.

The Veterans sponsored the campus Cystic Fibrosis Drive in September. Also in the fall, the Eastern Veterans hosted the fall convention of the Kentucky Collegiate Veteran's Association.

The Veterans Club entered a float in the Homecoming Parade and their candidate was among the fifteen finalists for the Homecoming Queen. Eastern presented the Veteran's Appreciation Day in conjunction with the Veterans Club.

E-Club Holds All-Sports Day

The Varsity "E" Club is an organization for those athletes who have lettered in intercollegiate sports. Functions of the "E" Club include selling programs and ushering at all home football and basketball games.

The biggest event in which the "E" Club participated was its annual All-Sports Day. This event, which attracted youngsters from all over Madison County, allowed club members to instruct the children in various phases of their sports.

Members who have remained in good standing for three years receive an "E" ring, which signifies their leadership and dedication to their sports and their school.

International Students Sponsor Filipino Child

In October, members of the International Students Association represented Eastern at United Nations Day in Frankfort. In early November, the Association held a large International Dinner and talent show. Over 450 people attended the dinner in Martin Hall Cafeteria.

During the second semester, the group sponsored weekly soccer games on Sundays, playing any interested group. The first week of March, the Association held another successful International Talent Show.

The purpose of the International Students Association was to increase the feeling of brotherhood throughout the world. The group felt that the world is their community. The Association consisted of 75 students from approximately 26 countries.

In keeping with their purpose of extending human brotherhood, the International Students sent money to sponsor sending a Philippine child child to school. The group worked for the possibility of establishing an International Student Center.

KDT's Adopt Indian Child

Kappa Delta Tau service sorority adopted an American Indian child, and sent money monthly for the child's support. They hoped to bring the child to campus for a visit.

KDT's celebrated their 10th anniversary with a reception for their alumni at Homecoming. The girls collected money in the dorms for UNICEF at Halloween.

Annual KDT activities included the powderpuff football game during orientation week, and their trip to Fort Knox to provide refreshments for the soldiers in the hospital there. At Thanksgiving, KDT's furnished a food basket to a needy family. The girls went Christmas caroling, especially at the nursing homes.

In April, KDT held its annual She-Male Contest with contestants from many campus organizations.

KDT's served at various banquets held on campus. They worked the concession stands for football and basketball games. KDT's also aided in the various student elections during the year.

Catalina Club Presents 'Fantasy'

Catalina Club provided creative experiences through aquatic rhythm and design. The club's synchronized swimming offered the participants an opportunity to develop leadership, fellowship, cooperation, and initiative.

During the first week in April, the Club presented a water ballet having the theme of 'Fantasy' in the Alumni Coliseum pool. The show ran for three nights and was very well attended.

Membership into the Catalina Club was determined by tryouts in strokes and water stunts.

Dance Theater Fosters Self-Expression

Giving students the opportunity for physical self-expression to music was the aim of the Eastern Dance Theater. This year's Theater performed many reviews, including several dances that were filmed for educational television. The theater worked hand-in-hand with other organizations such as the music department and the percussion ensemble.

Events for the year included a Halloween dance in the ravine and the spring review which featured the entire company in its biggest performance of the year.

Membership into the Eastern Dance Theater is open to all and auditions are held each semester for those who wish to try out. During their weekly meetings, members were taught new techniques of expression through dance.

Orchestra Features Guest Conductors

The Eastern Kentucky University Symphony Orchestra increased its exposure on the campus this year with the addition of two full symphony orchestra concerts each semester. Conductor Earl Thomas presented eight members of the music faculty in guest artist roles during the season. They were Alan Staples, violin; Lyle Wolfrom, 'cello; Alan Beeler, oboe; Donald Henrickson, bass-baritone; Jo An-Lorna Bonneman, soprano; Robert Cook, bassoon, Nancy Daniel, flute and Landis Baker, piano. Choral Directors Bruce Hoagland and David Wehr were guest conductors of the orchestra when their ensembles participated in four appearances during the season.

CONCERT CHOIR.

Comprised of 100 singers representing all colleges within the University, the Concert Choir presented four on-campus concerts and several off-campus during its spring tour. The Choir, whose membership was open to all students who qualified, also made recordings for Kentucky Educational Television.

Other choral groups sponsored by the Department of Music included the EKU Chamber Choir, the Women's Chorale and the Oratorio Chorus.

The Chamber Choir, composed of thirty-four students, toured extensively in performing for churches, social organizations, schools, and conventions across the state. Specializing in performing works designed for the small ensemble, the Chamber Choir has given sixteen premiere performances, three of which were written for and dedicated to the choir.

Ensemble Changes Style

The University Ensemble, under the direction of Dennis Harris, changed its style of singing to become more diversified. The style, which consisted mainly of gospel songs, changed to include spiritual, patroitic, and contemporary music.

The Ensemble, consisting of 85 members, traveled to Louisville, Columbus, Indiana, Cincinnati, Lexington, Paris, Winchester, and Dayton, as well as the Richmond area, performing their repertoire.

Players Present Full Range of Dramas

The University players was made up of members of the University community who have a sincere interest in drama. This season, the Players, under the leadership of Bobby Butler, Richard Diehl, Cindy Russell, Sandy Remy, and Gary Lawrence, worked with the drama department in the producing of five plays ranging from Shakespeare to Ibsen. The plays were "An Enemy Of The People," "A Servant Of Two Masters," "Dandelion Wine," "A Midsummer Nights Dream," and "The Emperors New Clothes." The goal in the choice of plays was to produce plays which exposed the audiences to a full variety of dramatic forms. The presentation of "Dandelion Wine" marked the opening of the remodeled Pearl Buchanan Theatre.

ROTC Adds Women, MP's; Conducts FTX's

Eastern's Military Science Department was named as one of ten in the nation offering women the opportunity to participate in ROTC. The girls participated in corps periods, classroom activities and some field training exercises along with the men.

ROTC sponsored four field-training exercises. September 24, an FTX was held to prepare cadets for summer camp. In October, the freshmen cadets traveled to Fort Knox. The cadets were introduced to life on a military post. They also received practice on the rifle range. November 5, the sophomore cadets held an FTX in orienteering and platoon tactics. FTX's in April on small unit tactics rounded out the year.

November 18 was Military Day. The ROTC organizations held a pregame show.

The Annual President's and Dean's Review was held April 6. It was climaxed by the Military Ball in the Keen Johnson Building. Three Commissioning Services were held, with approximately 50 cadets receiving their commissions.

CGR's Are "Military Organization-of-the-Year"

Selected as "Military Organization-of-the-Year" by the Department of Military Science, the Counter-Guerrilla Raiders completed an eventful year of service and activity.

The Raiders participated in eight field training exercises, beginning with the pledge FTX in September. In October the CG's joined with other ROTC groups from Eastern and Morehead in the air mobile FTX. In November several CG's acted as aggressors for an FTX of the Pershing Rifles.

Serving as guides for both fall and spring registration, the Raiders assumed daily responsibility for the flags at Alumni Coliseum and those at Hanger Field for home football games.

As part of the Military Day ceremonies, four members of the Company, Calvin Mayfield, James Scott, Hubert Hendren, and Larry Parks, gave a demonstration of rappelling from a helicopter.

The CGR's were awarded a plaque from the Jaycees for selling the most honey on Honey Sunday.

MP's Provide Color Guard Aid Traffic Control

The Military Police Company again proved an asset to the University and the Richmond community. The MP's directed traffic for all the home football games and for the parades held by the city of Richmond.

On Military Day, in addition to traffic control, the Company provided the color guard. MP's also served as the color guard for all home basketball games.

Richmond Jaycess presented the Military Police Company with an award for selling candy to raise money for Jaycee projects.

The MP Company sponsored several speakers and held classes to encourage improvement among their members in traffic control and military tactis. In October, they took part in an air mobile FTX. Several parties enlivened the social area for the MP's.

MP's acted as honor guard members for the dedication of the Law Enforcement Center and the re-opening of the Keen Johnson Building.

PR's Win Drill Meet

Pershing Rifles, Company R-1, organized at Eastern in 1955, stands as one of the most active organizations on Eastern's campus. Within 15 years Company R-1 had won more than 150 trophies in drill competition.

Pershing Rifles are primarily a military organization, representing the Military Science Department at various regional and national drill meets. The "Suicide Squad," trick drill team, took first place in a parade competition at Tennessee Tech University. Marching with the Pershing Rifles and giving added support were the Valianettes, the Pershing Rifle's coed affiliates. They also took first at Tennessee Tech. Aside from competition, Pershing Rifles provided various services to the Eastern and Richmond communities. The PR's travelled to Ohio State, Myrtle Beach, and Cincinnati University for drill competition

Sponsors Write Letters to POW's

ROTC sponsors rode in the Homecoming Parade representing the ROTC companies. They also were presented on Military Day prior to the Morehead football game. At the President's Review, the sponsors presented the awards to honored cadets.

The sponsors helped to coordinate and decorate for the Military Ball. In March, the girls visited the patients at Fort Knox Military Hospital. As the Prisoners of War were released, the ROTC sponsors wrote a "welcome home" letter to each of them.

AUSA Attends National Convention

The Eastern Association of the United States Army took part in a September picnic at Fort Knox with the AUSA from the base. In November they gave a party for the ROTC sponsors and the Cadre members.

Ten AUSA members travelled to Washington, D. C. for the National Convention. While there they attended a Congressional breakfast.

The AUSA members held a candy sale early in the year. The proceeds were used for the Military Ball, where Queen Athena was introduced.

Caduceus Tours; Chemistry Tutors

Caduceus Club sponsored the fall and spring visits of the Red Cross Bloodmobile.

In September, the group held a picnic at Boonesboro State Park along with the Chemistry and Biology faculty and graduate students.

October 20, the Caduceus Club toured the University of Kentucky Medical School and Dental School. Second semester, they held a book sale to raise money for a trip to Eli Lilly Company in Indianapolis. The annual Spring Banquet and recognition of honor members climaxed the year.

The Chemistry Club sponsored several programs in chemistry by various faculty members and experts from the surrounding area. Club members held tutoring sessions in Chemistry and slide rule lessons for students who needed this service.

Several members worked in undergraduate research for the Southeastern Regional meeting of the Student Affiliates of the American Chemical Society, which was held in April at Georgia Tech. Some of the members presented papers at this meeting.

LEN Association Sponsors Career Day

The highlight of the year for the Association of Law Enforcement was the November 16th Banquet at which Commissioner Donald E. Clark of Multnomah, Oregon, discussed law enforcement education and the law officer's role in the community.

The members assisted in the Easter Seal Telethon and sponsored a Campus Cancer Drive in April.

During spring vacation, the Association stressed the slogan, "Drive to Return Alive." The organization also expanded its Criminal Justice Career File.

On November 4 the group held a picnic and hayride. A spring picnic and awards program was also held. Donald Filer was presented a plaque for Outstanding Service.

A Career Day in Criminal Justice was held May 1, Law Day USA. The various aspects of the field were publicized to encourage recruitment in Criminal Justice.

Nutrition, Design Clubs Promote Career Interest

The Food and Nutrition Club held a September tea for freshman home economics majors to acquaint them with the various aspects of the Home Economics Department.

In November, the club donated a painting to the Burrier Building in memory of the late Regina Niehaus, a former member of the organization.

Tours of the U. K. Medical Center and the IBM plant in Lexington were held in March. These tours familiarized the students with dietetics procedures.

Three members of the Interior Design Club were sent as delegates to the NSID Professional Design Convention in October, at Columbus, Indiana.

In February, the Interior Design Club held a Bridal Fair to exhibit wedding gowns and other bridal attire. The fashions were furnished by a department store. Throughout the year, the group sponsored several guest speakers in the field of design. A Textiles and Design Symposium was held in April.

Home Ec Club Holds Opportunities Panel

Members of the Home Economics Club presented a panel on the career opportunities in home economics in November. Throughout the year they offered several programs on the different aspects of home economics to the other groups in the department. These programs represented the club's service efforts for the year.

Members of the club attended the Fall State Workshop at Morehead and the Spring State Convention in Lexington. The group sold "Care Packages" to raise money to send two delegates to the National Convention in Detroit, Michigan.

Student Nurses Hold Membership Drive

A spaghetti supper in September led off the year for the Student Nurses Association. Seven of the members attended the annual Kentucky Association of Nursing Students Convention in Louisville. In December, the group began a membership drive and the publication of a newsletter.

The second semester opened with a candy sale and a chili supper to raise money for the spring banquet.

The club held two capping ceremonies. The first was in September, and the other in February at which the first class of four year students received their caps.

MENC, SNEA Hold Membership Drives

The Music Educators National Conference held a picnic for the Music Department faculty, the graduate students and music majors in September at Richmond City Park. The purpose was to encourage MENC membership and to promote good relations between music students and faculty.

MENC sent six delegates to the KMEA State Convention in Owensboro, January 11-13. On weekends members of the club worked with children at Telford Community Center.

The Student National Education Association began the year with a drive to increase membership. The Mulebarn was the scene of an SNEA Halloween costume party.

In December, the members of SNEA toured the Department of Special Education and Rehabilitation. This tour provided the members with an opportunity to become familiar with the department and its programs. The group sponsored various speakers at their regular meetings.

Phi Beta Lambda Aids Mothers' March

Phi Beta Lambda, a national organization for young adults enrolled in business and office programs, is now in its second year of existence. Members participated in the Mothers' March for Birth Defects by collecting door-to-door for the March of Dimes. Other activities included making weekly visits to the Kenwood Nursing Home, touring IBM's Lexington plant, and attending the State Leadership Conference at Cumberland Falls State Park.

Phi Beta Lambda attempts to develop the qualities of business and civic leadership in today's youth, preparing them to enter the business world.

Ag Club and ACE Sponsor Speakers

The Agriculture Club sponsored the first sanctioned National Tractor Pull in Madison County, offering cash prizes totaling $7,000.00.

Members of the club went on a field trip to Florida. While there, the group toured several Florida nurseries. Dr. Frank Gibert of Union College spoke to the group about the Everglades.

The group, approximately one-half of whom are agriculture majors, began publication of a club newspaper, The Carter Report.

The theme for the Association of Childhood Education for the year, "Opening Avenues Through Communication," was the incentive for speakers, panel discussions and other activities throughout the year.

In October, ACE held an open house for members and other students to meet with the elementary education faculty and ask questions about childhood education.

ACE also presented a series of story-telling programs on Eastern's radio station.

AURORA Provides Creative Outlet

AURORA, Eastern's student literary publication, was published with the purpose of giving talented students the opportunity and experience of writing for publication. It also provided a record of student literary endeavor.

The student editors made final selections for the publication after a year of selecting the best from hundreds of prose and poetry works submitted for consideration. The faculty worked closely with the editors by giving constructive criticisms for improving each piece. The AURORA was placed on sale late in the spring.

Eastern Progress Broadens Coverage

In its fiftieth year of publication, the PROGRESS expanded news coverage to include both on-and off-campus reporting. New angles were developed for features and sports coverage was broadened.

Jack D. Frost, former sports editor and managing editor, became the first graduate student to serve as editor. At mid-year Frost moved on to fill the position of news editor for the Richmond Register, which was vacated by the untimely death of former PROGRESS staffer, Jim House. Jim Ross again served as business manager.

Robert Babbage, Jr., having been managing editor, became editor. With a few changes in editorships, the Spring semester found the PROGRESS extending investigative and city-campus reporting. Editorially, the paper suggested extended library hours, examined pollution problems and press freedom, and included new columns.

Milestone Marks Golden Anniversary

During its Golden Anniversary year the MILESTONE continued its 50-year-old tradition of reporting in words and pictures the events of the year at Eastern.

Countless hours went into the compilation of photographs and copy that constitute this 608-page book. But, in addition to producing the book itself, the staff worked at several fund-raising projects necessary in order to continue selling for $7.50 a book which costs approximately $10.00 each to produce. Picture sales, sale of organization pages and investments were among the business activities designed to hold down the cost to the individual student.

It wasn't all drudgery for the MILESTONE staffers. Activities such as the fall workshop-picnic, the Associated Collegiate Press convention in New York City and the annual spring awards banquet provided both informational and recreational breaks from the activity.

Photographic Staff Attend Nikon School

Photography is more than a technical skill. But, because of its many technical aspects, it necessitates a professional attitude. The development of this attitude in his students was the goal of University Photographer, Larry Bailey.

"A professional attitude is a necessary stepping stone to professional results," says Bailey. This attitude was sought after and attained by student photographers Jim Shepherd, Dan Quigg, Don Wallbaum, Russ Tapp, Gary Zeller, Ken Griffin, and Chip Osborne. Although described as "zany" by many, this motley crew was responsible for the photos which won the MILESTONE college photo honors last year. Professionalism did not mean that photographers could not enjoy themselves. They did.

Bailey, Shepherd, and Wallbaum attended Nikon school in September. The school was held in Indianapolis and explored 35mm techniques.

Seniors Enter Last Year With Mixed Feelings

As the Seniors arrived back on campus for their final year, their thoughts were filled with feelings of both excitement and nostalgia for they were about to enter the world as educated men and women. As they looked forward into the future, they also remembered fond moments with the friends they had made throughout the years.

May 13, 1973 brought graduation and the final meeting of the Class of '73. For Seniors and parents alike, it was a proud moment that will be always cherished. So just as the Class of '73 arrived as freshmen full of excitement and vitality, they left Eastern with the knowledge to last a lifetime.

Students discover that clothes dried over their registers are cheaper and often faster than dorm dryers.

THE 50TH MILESTONE

UNDERCLASSES

Juniors Develop More Awareness

Developing an awareness of their roles in life, members of the Junior class returned ready to tackle another year. With two years of experience behind, they no longer felt insecure in the main stream of campus activities.

The Class of '74 joined efforts with Seniors to build a Homecoming float and sponsored Judy Hamilton as their Homecoming Queen Candidate. Also after a home basketball game, the Juniors sponsored a dance.

JUNIOR CLASS OFFICERS. Wilson Myers, secretary; Judy Gibson, committee chairman; Daryl Mamillot, activities chairman; Bonnie Gray, treasurer; Charles Colehour, vice president; and Scott Neal, president.

Sophomores Gain New Confidence

As Sophomores returned to Eastern's campus, they felt a new excitement knowing that they were no longer the beginners. Feelings had changed. They felt a new confidence within themselves and realized the role they play in University life.

Life wasn't simple anymore; new questions had to be answered and new problems had to be faced.

Freshmen Provide Image of Past

Freshmen again bombarded the campus with life and vitality as the Class of '76 began their college careers. Although considered very naive and scorned by many upperclassmen, the exuberant beginners took to their task with vigor while providing their elders with a fond mirror image of their past.

Among activities for the year, the class built a float for the Homecoming Parade and sponsored a Homecoming Queen candidate.

Editor's Note

March 9, 1973. The last day!

After literally thousands of manhours of work, the final copy shipment for the fiftieth Milestone was made . . . at exactly 5:58 p.m., Eastern Standard Time. It was a very happy time! The deep sigh of relief was as refreshing as the unseasonably warm, sunny weather on that, the final day of mid-term exams that signaled a time for many of us to head to the Land of Sunshine for our respites.

But, after a few moments, nostalgia set in. And how! All I could think about were the kids on the staff and all the others who had given so much of themselves to make this, the 1973 Milestone, possible. And, I finally began to realize the real magnitude of what had been done.

My thoughts turned to all the experiences of the past 14 months spent in planning and preparation, writing and rewriting, and more rewriting, scheduling photographs, preparing layouts and cropping pic-ures. And, most important, I remembered all the people whose dedication and cooperation made it all possible.

It was a time to remember the many sleepness nights spent in frantically working toward, and worry-ng about, those dreaded deadlines. And, too, the schoolwork that the staff didn't have enough time or energy to prepare for. It was also a time to reflect on the good times the staff had together, in the Milestone office, at Boonesboro, at Christmastime and at other "unofficial" occasions.

The Milestone is a book about people, about beauty, about sacrifice and about attainment. It suc-ceeds only if it meets the expectations of its audience, the student body, and only if it passes the real est — the test of time. I think it will and does!

A book about people, the fiftieth Milestone is a tribute to people . . . beautiful people!

So many persons contributed to the 1973 Milestone that it would be impossible to thank them all ndividually. To those whose painstaking efforts made the book possible goes a very special thanks. The staff was comprised of students representing every college within the University. And, perhaps, the argest staff ever to stick it out throughout the year did just that. They were real pros when the going was tough.

Linda Mittel, my managing editor, was the one person I depended on most. When deadlines grew near, I counted on her to complete the job. Section editors were beautiful people doing a beautiful job, without exception. Their job was a big one, and they did it well!

Another to whom goes a special thanks is Rick "Cyrus" Allen, who doubled as business manager and under classes co-editor. The job of keeping track of a budget that to us seemed like the national debt was a massive responsibility and he handled it superbly. His was the assignment to direct fund-raising projects that permitted us to produce a book that cost nearly ten dollars each to produce for the student body which paid only three-fourths that amount for each copy.

To Larry Bailey, University Photographer, and his troupe of student photographers, Dan Quigg, Jim Shepherd, Donald Wallbaum, Russ Tapp and Ken Griffin goes a super thanks, for without their talents and dedication, this fiftieth Milestone would have never existed.

To all our friends at Osborne Photographic Laboratories, Cincinnati, who provided the student portraits and group photographs and who, again, gave us their unquestioned support, warm thanks is extended. We appreciate Mr. Len Osborne, Mr. John Mullaney, Mrs. Betty Megerle, Mr. Bob Ott, portrait photographer, and Mr. Steve May, who took most of the group pictures.

Appreciation is expressed to our printer, Taylor Publishing Company, Dallas, Texas, especially to representative, Mr. Russ Rivard and the plant staff, including Jim Thompson, Jim Council, Jerry Rainey and others.

And, finally, two men to whom I owe a personal and special thanks are Vice President Donald R. Feltner, our adviser, and Mr. Doug Whitlock, Director of News and Publications, who worked hand-in-hand with the staff throughout the year, including the summer. They were always there to give us support, direction, advice, and encouragement. Whatever or whenever the need, they were at our sides.
